MISSING WITNESS IN GERM CASE APPEARS!

GIVES NOTICE PROTECTION REQUIRED

...ives And Property Must Not Be Violated, Is Washington Order

By LLOYD LEHRBAS
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The United States today served notice on Mexico that the rights of American citizens in that country may not be violated while efforts are being made by Mexican officials to establish a stable government.

In a formal statement issued following a series of conferences here with James R. Sheffield, United States ambassador to Mexico, Secretary of State Kellogg said this government was desirous of helping to effect stabilization in Mexico, but that its support would be extended only so long as Mexico "protects American lives and American rights and complies with its international agreements and obligations."

Kellogg also announced that demand had been made on Mexico for the payment of claims growing out of the illegal seizure of American property in Mexico under the agrarian laws.

"We believe it is the desire of the Mexican government," Kellogg said, "to carry out the conventions and to indemnify American citizens for property taken So long as we are satisfied that this is the policy of the Mexican government and this course of action is being carried out with a determination to meets its international obligations, that government will have the support of the United States.

Before Commissions

"I have discussed general Mexican affairs with Ambassador Sheffield at great length. He has gone over the entire situation. It will be remembered that we entered into two claims conventions with Mexico under which joint claims commissions were appointed to adjust claims of American citizens for properties illegally taken by Mexico and for injuries to American citizens of their rights. These commissions are now sitting and will in due time adjudicate these claims.

"Conditions have improved and our ambassador had succeeded in protecting American as well as foreign interests. Our relations with the government are friendly but nevertheless, conditions are not entirely satisfactory, and we are looking to and expect the Mexican government to restore properties illegally taken and to indemnify American citizens."

Rumors of Revolution

The present Mexican government, Secretary Kellogg said, is now on trial before the world and while the United States knows that it takes time to bring about a stable government, the United States cannot allow violations of rights in the meantime.

"I have seen statements published that another revolutionary movement may be impending in Mexico," Secretary Kellogg said. "I very much hope that this is not true. The government's attitude toward Mexico and towards threatened revolutionary movements was clearly set forth in 1923 when there was such a movement threatening the constituted government of that country, which had entered into solemn engagements with this government and was making an effort to meet those obligations at home and abroad.

Influence for Peace

"The attitude taken by this government at that time has since been maintained, and it is now the policy of this government to use its influence and its support in behalf of stability and orderly constitutional procedure, but it should be made clear that this government will continue to support the government in Mexico only so long as it protects American lives and American rights and complies with its international engagements in obligations.

"The government of Mexico is now on trial before the world. We have the greatest interest in the stability, prosperity and independence of Mexico. We have been patient and realize of course, that it takes time to bring about a stable government but we cannot countenance violation of her obligations and failure to protect American interests."

Denver Ships Car of Snow to Rotarians

DENVER, June 12.—A carload of snow taken from the crest of the Continental divide will be sent to Cleveland by express by the Denver Rotary club's delegates to the international convention and will be used on the streets of the Ohio city during the convention next week to back up Denver's slogan, "Sunshine and snow balls—Denver 1926."

The snow will be brought to Denver over the Moffat railroad in a refrigerator car and will be transferred to an express train here.

Denver entertains the International Rotary convention in 1926.

GIRL DIES IN EXPLOSION ON YACHT

Thirteen Members Of Party Injured And Several Believed Missing

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 12.—Thirty government vessels were searching the waters off Atlantic City today for several young men and women believed missing following a mysterious explosion and fire which destroyed the pleasure yacht Crystal, shortly before midnight last night, burned one girl to death, seriously burned thirteen young men and women and turned a merry excursion trip into a voyage of horror.

Government Inquiry

Captain William Young, who commanded the yacht, was held in $2000 bonds pending a government inquiry to determine the cause of the tragedy.

All of those on board the Crystal were members of the Social Independent club. The club hired the Crystal, a cabin gasoline yacht, yesterday afternoon.

It was planned to go out about five miles and to remain there while the young people danced. Later it was decided to see whether any vessels were anchored in rum row.

Leap Overboard

On the return voyage, the Crystal was about six miles off Atlantic City when the explosion shook the craft. It was a theory among some of the members that a burning cigarette was carelessly tossed on top of the yacht's gasoline supply tank.

Afraid to jump into the water, the terrified club members remained on the yacht, meanwhile adjusting life preservers to themselves until the flames had practically enveloped the craft. Then they leaped overboard.

Probe Double Killing At Mountain Resort

SACRAMENTO, June 12.—With the motive for the double shooting still undetermined, Coroner John T. Skelton of Sacramento today prepared to conduct a searching inquiry into the circumstances leading up to the fatal wounding of Charles E. Clough, Bakersfield hotel man, at Truckee Tuesday night, and the subsequent suicide of his assailant, Z. C. Pratt, proprietor of a mountain camp where the tragedy was enacted.

French Cabinet Puts Seal On Teuton Pact

PARIS, June 12.—The French cabinet today unanimously approved the text of the French reply to the security pack proposals made by Germany, which will be forwarded to Germany, probably Monday. The cabinet voted its thanks to Foreign Minister Briand for his successful negotiations at Geneva resulting in the proffer of a Franco-British accord in the pact.

TAX REVISION PROGRAM IS UNDER WAY

Senator Smoot At Capital For Conferences With Coolidge, Mellon

By H. K. REYNOLDS
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—With the arrival here of Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the Senate finance committee, for conferences with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and other officials, the administration's tax revision program, to be submitted to the next Congress, has begun to take definite form.

Smoot conferred with the president at the White House today on proposed revenue legislation. It was decided that no general attempt to revise the tariff would be made at the next session of Congress, Smoot holding that any opening of the tariff questions would result in prolonged debate on that subject to the exclusion of other important questions.

Smoot probably will remain here for several weeks, not only to work on the tax problem, but to act with the American debt funding commission, of which he is a member, in forthcoming negotiations with Belgium and other nations which may undertake funding operations.

Agrees With Coolidge

As to revenue legislation in Congress this winter, Smoot agreed today with President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon that the revenue act of 1924 is unsatisfactory in many respects and that a country-wide demand is developing for tax revision or tax reform, as the president describes it. This would include the elimination of the discriminatory taxes which are now held to restrict business by demanding too great a tribute from the larger incomes.

Reduction of surtaxes will be proposed along with more liberal exemptions for small incomes, although the last tax law provided for greater reductions in the latter class than those originally proposed in the Mellon plan.

Inheritance Taxation

Smoot also favors the abolition of the federal inheritance tax and gift tax, leaving it to the states to make that levy if they so desire.

The treasury's recommendation for tax reduction and revision, while varying little from last year's proposal, will not be definitely determined until the end of the present fiscal year on June 30, when the extent of the cash surplus is known. Regardless of the amount of surplus, however, it is expected that the total tax reduction ordered in the next Congress will be in the neighborhood of half a billion dollars annually.

Wife, Two Sons, Burn As Husband Escapes

NEW YORK, June 12.—Mrs. Rose Burns, 28, and her two sons, Thomas, 3, and James, 2, were burned to death early today in a fire which swept their apartment here following an explosion of undetermined origin. James Burns, 31, a trolley inspector, told police he was awakened by the explosion to find his room in a blaze and smashed his way through a window. When he recovered from his shock, he returned through the fire several times in ineffectual attempts to rescue his family.

Old Warship's Last Journey Aids Festival

PORTLAND, Ore., June 12.—Flying her "homeward bound" pennant which graced her flagstaff in the return from the victories at Santiago bay, during the Spanish-American war, the old battleship Oregon was being towed up the Columbia river today to arrive in Portland harbor late tonight.

Her guns silenced, her engines "dead," the old "sea dog" was on her last journey which started Tuesday at Bremerton, Wash. She will carry the queen of the Rose festival and her retinue to the upper harbor Monday and will be permanently berthed here as a shrine of historic memories.

RUSH TROOPS AS MINERS OPEN WAR

One Man Killed And Forty Hurt In Battle As Police Guard Power Plant

HALIFAX, N. S., June 12.—Four hundred government troops were due to arrive today in New Waterford, N. S., where 2000 striking miners were in possession of the power plant of the British Empire Steel corporation following bloodshed and rioting in which one miner was killed and forty miners and company police were injured, ten of them seriously.

Chief of Police Noble of New Waterford had both legs broken and his head battered, but is expected to live.

Police Captured

The mob swept down on the power plant when the police, who were guarding it had exhausted their ammunition. A score of police were captured and were dragged through the streets, kicked and clubbed. But for the intervention of Catholic priests, it was believed some of the men would have been killed.

After seizing the power plant, strikers raided the company's store, carried off all provisions and clothing and set fire to the building.

Reports from New Waterford indicate that the town and adjacent mining communities had passed through a lively night. The striking miners were said to have run short of food and to have attacked the corporation stores.

Strikers Take Town

The trouble at New Waterford started with corporation officials and company police attempting to start up operatons at the New Waterford power station, which generates power for the various mines of the British Empire Steel corporation. The strikers came through victorious and took full possession of the town.

The more seriously injured included four miners and six policemen and mine guards. General Manager H. J. McCann of the corporation and several officials fled from the New Waterford power station during the rioting and no word had been received from them this forenoon.

NAVAL THREAT ON CANTON REPORTED

Northern Chinese Fleet To Aid Yunnanese Troops, Hong Kong Rumor

BULLETIN

SHANGHAI, June 12.—Eight Chinese were reported to have been killed at Hankow today when British marines opened fire on a mob of strikers who were attempting to storm the municipal building.

HONG KONG, June 12.—Reports were circulated today that Admiral Wen will send the northern Chinese fleet to Canton to assist the Yunnanese troops who are now battling with the Cantonese forces.

This threat of naval intervention followed threats of the Cantonese to bomb the city of Canton from the air.

A party of Cantonese who attempted to cross the river on bamboo rafts were heavily repulsed by the Yunnanese forces.

The threats of aerial bombing caused a great exodus to Canton and Hong Kong.

Two more British gunboats have arrived off Shameen, the foreign settlement below Canton.

Diplomatic Corps Refuses Demands Offered By China

PEKING, June 12.—The diplomatic corps this afternoon returned a tacit refusal of the arbitrary demands voiced in the Chinese note delivered last night.

No mention was made of the Chinese demands for lifting of martial law, disarming of foreign police and release of students charged with rioting, but the reply pointed out the need of investigation by both Chinese and foreign authorities to correct the riotous conditions.

The diplomatic corps reminded the Chinese government of its responsibility to maintain order.

Woman Seeks Death As Lover Is Hanged

SOFIA, June 12.—When M. Perchemlieff, condemned to death for harboring the Sveti Kral cathedral bombers, was hanged yesterday, Madame Nicolova, another conspirator, begged the authorities also to hang her, because she said life without the man she loved was not worth while. Madame Nicolova's death sentence imposed by the military court was commuted recently.

Perchemlieff was hanged from the same scaffold where Friedmann and other arch-conspirators who caused the death of 160 persons in the cathedral were hanged.

MINER ENTOMBED IN GRASS VALLEY SHAFT

GRASS VALLEY, Cal., June 12.—With scores of volunteers working continuously in an effort to remove a slide which entombed Robert Hill, 800 feet from the mouth of the tunnel of the Baltic mine, near here, the fate of the miner was unknown this afternoon. Hill, working on the night shift of the mine, was caught either by the slide or on the other side of it early today.

FOUR TWISTERS SWEEP NORTHERN IOWA

MASON CITY, Iowa, June 12.—Four baby twisters swept northern Iowa last night, bringing injuries to at least a score of persons and wrecking many farmhouses. The town of Alexandria was reported practically wiped out, with twenty persons injured. Mrs. Cliff Evans, Mrs. Harvey Hemmons and Will Evans were injured near Chapin, south of here, when a tornado demolished eleven farm homes. The most severe hailstorm in the history of the northern part of the state fell north of Green. The stones cut large holes in the sod. At noon today ice measured 50 inches in thickness in a hollow near where the hail had drifted.

State Counts on Beauty

MRS. ERNESTINE CLARK, beautiful wife of E. P. Clark, is expected to be one of the most important witnesses for the state at the William D. Shepherd trial in Chicago on the charge of murdering his foster-son, William McClintock, "orphan millionaire" and the boy's mother, Mrs. Emma McClintock. She told the grand jury a $17,500 bribe was offered to Clark to change his testimony so it would favor Shepherd.

TWO NATIONS OPEN DRIVE ON RIFFS

Franco-Spanish Offensive to Start In Morocco As Premier Arrives

BULLETIN

LONDON, June 12—Great Britain has no intention of joining France in a declaration of blockade against the Riffians, it was said authoritatively today.

PARIS, June 12.—Premier Painleve of France has arrived at Fez, the capital of Morocco, coincident with the announcement of the Spanish government that a combined Franco-Spanish offensive is about to be launched against the Riffs. The offensive, the Paris Midi said today, will be launched from Tetuan in the northwest, Alcazar Seguir in the north and Melilla in the northeast.

The objective of the Franco-Spanish forces will be the Riffian capital, Ajdir, fifteen miles inland from Alhucemas bay, toward which the new Spanish armada of thirteen merchant ships is destined with the primary object of capturing the island fortress of Alhucemas.

This offensive, according to the Spanish government, will oblige Abdel Krim, the Riffian leader, to capitulate within a few weeks.

Free German Ships

The two German vessels, Leipzig and Dortmund, seized by the French in the Mediterranean, on the charge of arms smuggling to the Riffians, were released today when it was proven they were only carrying fish, according to a foreign office statement.

The Franco-Spanish conference on the Morocco situation opens next Wednesday. M. Painleve in an interview published by the Paris Midi today said that a rigid blockade of the Riffs would be the first result of his conversations with the Spanish authorities.

Britain's Air Service Joins Suez And India

LONDON, June 12.—Secretary of State for the Air Service Sir Samuel Hoare announced today that commercial air service was in operation between the Suez canal and India.

HOOVER ASKS FARMERS TO AID LABOR

Tells Need Of Co-operation Among Economic Groups To Avoid Injustice

OSKALOOSA, Iowa, June 12.—A plea for co-operation among the fundamental economic groups, farmer, labor, railroad and merchant—was made here today by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, addressing the graduating class at Penn college. Real progress in America, according to Hoover, is impossible until these groups are relieved of all justified feeling of injustice and oppression. He pointed out that the economic groups represent parts of agricultural co-operative societies, which comprises the country's entire business fabric.

"Upon the basis of self-interest alone, if we are to have the maximum efficiency from labor, there must first be the assurance that labor will have a fair share in the result of its effort," Hoover declared.

High Wage Helps

"If we are to have economical production, labor must give its best effort.

"It is not to the advantage of the farmer to drag down the high wage of the mechanic and thereby the consuming power for farm products.

"The railroads suffer most from depression in agriculture. The farmer loses most from crippling of the railroads.

"The first need of manufacturers and merchants is increased buying power among the farmers."

West Point Cadets Told Aviation's Value

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 12.—The importance of aviation as a major offensive and defensive unit of the army was stressed today by Dwight F. Davis, acting secretary of war, in addressing the graduating class of the United States military academy here. Davis declared that in the future army officials must devote considerable time to practical training in aeronautics. The growth of aviation is of the utmost importance, Davis said.

ROBERT WHITE CAUSES NEW SENSATION AT TRIAL

Tells Of Death Threat And Being 'Forced To Change' Grand Jury Testimony

CHICAGO, June 12.—Robert White, missing witness in the Shepherd murder trial, walked into the criminal court building shortly before noon today, accompanied by his wife and two children.

"I'm here to fight this thing to a finish," was White's comment. "There's a whole lot more to this affair than anyone dreams."

White disappeared about four weeks ago and half the country had been combed for him.

The courtroom of Judge Lynch, where Shepherd is on trial, was thrown into a few moments of disorder when White came down the aisle.

Shepherd leaned over and told friends for the first time of telephone calls he had received from White early this week but which he had considered unimportant until his appearance today.

Issues Statement

After being questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Joseph Savage and John Sbarbaro, White issued the following statement:

"The story I told before the grand jury is true. I am here to testify for the state. I left Chicago under a threat of death. My original story that I saw Shepherd at the National University of Science and that Shepherd inquired into a course in bacteriology stands. The statement in the possession of Attorneys Stewart and O'Brien made by me denying the truth of my grand jury testimony is false.

"It was forced from me by Arthur E. Byrnes and Stewart and O'Brien. I have been in Chicago a week. I was traveling throughout the east and I did write the letters which you were reported to have received."

Medical Witnesses

Dr. Rufus Stolp, who first attended McClintock, and Dr. James Herrick, a specialist whom Dr. Stolp called in, were the first witnesses.

"From your knowledge of the case," State's Attorney Crowe asked Dr. Stolp, "did you come to a conclusion as to what caused death in this case?"

"Yes," was the reply, "Typhoid fever—very malignant."

Upon cross-examination, Stewart brought out that Billy McClintock and Miss Catherine Pope together told Dr. Stolp of having eaten raw oysters at a banquet in a south side hotel. Stewart told the court he will show that evening other guests became ill of typhoid.

Dr. Herrick bore out Dr. Stolp's testimony that McClintock's death was due to typhoid.

Frustrated Marriage

The circumstances attending upon Miss Pope's frustrated marriage were brought out by Stewart in questioning Dr. Stolp. The doctor had testified that all visitors except Miss Pope had been excluded from the sick room.

"Were you there when Miss Pope was there with the marriage license?" asked Stewart.

"Yes," the doctor replied, and said Billy was delirious at the time."

It had been charged that Shepherd blocked the intended marriage because, if it occurred, he would not benefit by the boy's death.

Another incident of the day's proceedings was the unexpected return of Robert E. White, missing witness.

Miss Estelle Gehling, the nurse with whom, according to her own story, he dallied along the primrose path, late today took the stand as the state's last witness of the day against Shepherd.

Through Miss Gehling, the state announced, an effort will be made to show that Shepherd, prior to the death of young McClintock, was badly in need of money—another link in the state's building up of Shepherd's motive for the alleged crime.

Glendale Artists To Appear On Radio Bill

Three Glendale artists will be heard over Radio KFWB tonight between the hours of 9 and 10 o'clock. In addition to musical numbers there will be a short talk on Glendale, delivered by Bert P. Woodard, local attorney, speaking in the name of the Chamber of Commerce.

Wesley Kuhnle, well-known concert pianist of Glendale, will play "Cuckoo" by Daquin, "Turkish March" by Mozart, "Spinning Song" by Mendelssohn and "Black Key Study" by Chopin.

Christine Edwards, winner of first place in the open violin contests in the California Eisteddfod finals, will render "Andante Scherzo-Capriccioso" by David. She will be accompanied by Mr. Kuhnle. Glenn R. Dolberg, winning baritone in the Eisteddfod finals, and also of Glendale, will sing "Invictus" by Huhm, with Mr. Kuhnle at the piano.

A request for Glendale radio fans who hear the program to write fan letters to KFWB, Warner Bros. studio, was issued by Chamber of Commerce officials. If sufficient interest is shown in this first program by Glendale "listeners in," other programs featuring local artists will be given at regular intervals, in the future, it was announced.

Glendalians were specially invited to visit the Warner Bros. broadcasting station during the hour that the Glendale program is on tonight. The studio is located on Sunset boulevard in Hollywood.

HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC FOR NURSES

Seniors Are Entertained by Juniors at Camp Baldy; Program Is Given

Senior nurses of Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital were given their annual entertainment by junior nurses Tuesday afternoon when they went on a trip to Camp Baldy. The nurses, sixty in number, left the hospital in three busses decorated with the senior class colors, purple and orange, and the junior colors of lavender and white.

The exact nature of the entertainment was not divulged to the seniors until they arrived at their destination. On arriving at Camp Baldy they enjoyed a swimming party, several races being staged for which prizes were awarded to Johanna Dose, Helen Bottler and Kenneth Daughters, while consolation prizes were awarded to Bertha Moore and Jess Harris. Bathing caps in senior class colors were presented to senior nurses.

Hospital Used As Hotels In Imperial Fill

Crowded housing conditions in the Imperial valley which is enjoying its most profitable vegetable season this year, nearly sent J. H. Shafe, Glendale stationer, 123-A South Brand boulevard, to the hospital on a recent trip to El Centro, he related today.

Arriving in the valley at night he found no accommodations at Brawley, which had a hotel fire several months ago and is more than 100 rooms short. At Imperial the hotels and lodging houses were filled. Mr. Shafe then telephoned the Barbara Worth hotel at El Centro.

"Sorry," the clerk answered him. "There was a room over at the hospital—the last one we know of—but it was taken fifteen minutes ago."

Mr. Shafe reports that Imperial city, where he still has property interests, and which nearly became "a ghost city" with the advent of prohibition, is staging a comeback, the Imperial Valley Irrigation district concentrating their working forces there. A gain of 115 families this year, which means new buildings and new stores, is reported by the water company paymaster at Imperial.

TELLS EXPERIENCES WHEN BURIED ALIVE

Man Dragged From Grave Gives Interview In Which He Explains Burial and Way He Tries to Prolong His Life

By G. S. GOSHORN
Of The Evening News Staff.

How does it feel to be buried alive? That was the question put to a man in Glendale today who spent three hours in a ditch grave, passed part way through the portals of death and then was dragged back.

"I was cold and could hardly breathe, and it was dark, and water kept running over my head so I knew I might drown if I didn't suffocate.

"But I wasn't scared. If there was a place for that water to get through, maybe air would come, too.

"Then I went to sleep and didn't wake up till I felt cold air blowing on my back."

That was the answer as given by Manuel Pombo of San Gabriel, who was held immovable under tons of earth more than three hours last Friday at the bottom of a sixteen-foot sewer ditch on Colorado street, following a cave-in that crushed the life out of one companion and injured three others.

Pombo is now declared by his attending physician, Dr. N. C. Paine, to be past the danger point resulting from complications due to his unusual experience.

On the day of the accident, Pombo was working behind the digging machine, putting in braces and cleaning the bottom of the ditch.

"Max Moore, who was killed, was just ahead of me," said Pombo, in describing the occurrence. "A lot of sand sifted through the timbers and around his feet. He went ahead putting in braces.

"I told Max there was danger and he should get out.

"'I'm going to put in one more brace,' he replied.

"'Come on, get out of there,' I yelled to him.

"Then 'crack' went the timbers and the dirt came in all at once. The first rush buried me half way up my chest. I was standing at the time. I was held fast so I couldn't move.

"Then in one second the bank caved in and I was in the dark, with a great weight pressing me against the side wall and pushing down on my head and shoulders.

"I began to yell, 'Take me out, dig me out.' But I didn't get scared. I thought they'd be sure to dig me out after a while.

"In about three minutes water began running down the side of my face. It came with a rush. I knew then the water pipe had broken. The water filled up over my head and down around my chest. Then it began to come more slowly.

Almost Drowns

"I drank a lot of the water. I had to do it to keep from drowning. That was the only way I could keep the water from filling my nose.

"But the water made me feel encouraged. I kept thinking that if the water came down it might keep a little hole open so I could breathe.

"I heard picks and shovels up above, but I didn't know whether they were looking for me or someone else.

"I began to feel cold. Then I began to go to sleep. I didn't remember anything more until the fresh air hit my back. Then I woke up. I saw the people trying to get me out and knew some of them."

That was Pombo's story, elicited a few words at a time, in broken English, by a series of questions. He didn't seem to consider his experience one to be amazed at.

Swallows Dirt

When he was taken to the hospital and examination showed no bones were broken, Dr. Paine began a careful watch for pneumonia, a common development from similar exposures. When removed from the ditch his body was blue, with heart action and temperature far below normal. While pneumonia did not show up, the patient

Modernizing! Padded Cell In New Jail!

Up to the present time in the history of Glendale there have been but occasional cases of insanity that have come under the supervision of the police department, but—

Glendale is taking no chances on what the future may bring forth. For those who, in the simple language of Webster, may be afflicted with hallucinations, a padded cell with all the upholstering done in the most approved style, will be provided in the new jail to be constructed in the proposed city hall annex.

It is to be located next to two cells for women prisoners.

Bids for the tier of cells to be installed will be opened by the City Council on Thursday, June 25. The specifications provide for the best type of modern, escape-proof cells.

THE SCHOOL BONDS

It is to be hoped that the school bond issue of $1,200,000 to be voted upon next Tuesday will be passed. There is such a need for more school facilities all over the city and a forward-looking community can not afford to take a backward step where its schools are concerned.

Glendale is a city of homes. We are growing and encouraging growth in population in every way. With nearly every new family comes one child or more and with every child comes need of increased school facilities. In other things we are building for the future. The need for at least part of this money that is being asked for the schools is immediate. Some of the schools are being forced to half-day sessions on account of the equipment being inadequate to the enrollment, and this is manifestly unfair, especially to the children who attend in the afternoon. They play all the forenoon, or are occupied with other things, and they cannot take up their studies with the same interest and enthusiasm as in the morning when they are fresh.

It is argued by some that there are unnecessary items included in this bond issue call. This may be true but where the schools are concerned it is better to err on the side of providing too much than too little—within reason, of course.

We older people are sometimes inclined to think that modern schools have too many frills and fads but the people go where their children can have these things, so a progressive community must provide them. It must be remembered that we do not live as we did a generation ago. We have advanced along all lines. We demand luxuries in our daily living and we are willing to pay for them. Educational methods have changed also and we would not have it otherwise. We should not be so short-sighted as to deny our children any advantages in the way of school equipment.

"A seat for every child," was the slogan heard and seen everywhere in Los Angeles a year or two ago previous to an election in which the people voted $26,000,000 bonds for school purposes. Glendale might well adopt this cry. A seat for every child is not too much to ask.

GERMAN PROSPERITY IMMINENT

Among those who are not only not fearful of the effect of the election of the former war leader, Von Hindenburg, as president of Germany, but who believe it to be the best possible thing for Germany and the United States, is Charles W. Clark, son of the late Senator William A. Clark.

He sees in Hindenburg's elevation, not a return to monarchy, not a defiant Germany, but a resumption of German national life, the building up of her industries and the opening of a market in Germany for our copper output, greatly curtailed since the war, to the detriment of a large section of the country.

Mr. Clark is managing director of the United Verde Copper Co. of Arizona. He claims that American copper production depends largely upon European consumption, and European consumption depends almost wholly upon German stability. Belgian and French mills are not functioning normally and will not until Germany is functioning normally.

In this country copper mines are operating only to keep their forces together, for the price of copper is so low there is no profit in it. The mine owners are waiting until the demand takes the price to such a level that it can be mined with profit. Arizona, New Mexico, northern Mexico, Montana, Michigan, Nevada and many other states are merely marking time until the European demand justifies greater production. With the copper industry paralyzed, many other industries are idle as a consequence.

Behind German stability and the resumption of the demand for copper lies the prosperity of an area of the United States that gives employment to very nearly one-tenth of the employed population of the country. Much of this territory is contiguous to California, so, if Mr. Clark is correct in his reasoning, we should have a direct and vital interest in the stabilization of industry in Germany.

CRIME NEWS

After a prolonged study of representative American newspapers, the University of Pennsylvania has announced that the best type of newspapers devotes but 22.5 per cent of first page space to crimes, and that "crime and disaster come second, and a poor second to constructive news." News of politics and government leads all other kinds on the first page, occupying 38.5 per cent of the space, foreign news fills 12.5 per cent of the page, stories of great disasters and scientific comment upon them take up 14.5 per cent, business 5 per cent, arts and science 3 per cent and society, religion, obituary and sports 1 per cent each.

Public affairs, domestic and foreign take up half of the front page on the average. This is the sort of news that is valuable, that keeps the people informed about the things they should know.

On the whole, the people do not object to crime news, even to giving it considerable space. They know that the light of publicity is wholesome and that to suppress this news entirely would be to invite and encourage criminal activity. What the people object to is the method of presenting this kind of news. Scarcely a newspaper but makes the man or woman who is on trial for any crime an object of interest and sympathy.

TRUTH NEVER DIES

Across the front of New York's public library there is engraved this statement: "But over all these things, truth beareth away the victory." It is heartening to remember this in these days when it so often seems that other things are victorious—superstition, demagoguery, intolerance, wealth and error of every description. And they may be for a time, but "truth crushed to earth will rise again."

Sometimes it seems as if the whole world is going wrong and that it devolves upon us to set things right. Lest we should become too discouraged it is well to remember at such times that truth will finally emerge triumphant.

Books

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There are not many good books in the world.

As a man gets older his books slough off and his library grows smaller. At last he has very little left but his books of reference.

Nowadays the making of books is easy and almost every person who has achieved success in any line, or thinks he has, will have no difficulty in compiling his memoirs or his theories into a volume.

Books emerge from the press of the civilized world, hundreds of them daily. It is useless to attempt to keep up with the latest reading.

As one travels through the sea of literature he finds it very much like traveling through a foreign country. I once went down the Rhine and saw from the town of Bingen the statue of Germania in the distance. We looked at it, but did not think it worth while to visit it. I remember a seasoned traveler told me that I had missed the greatest view in Europe by not going up to see the statue of Germania.

In this way you will always find someone who has seen something he thinks remarkable abroad, and if you have not seen the same, does not think you have seen the country at all.

When people ask you if you have read this, that or the other volume, you can rarely say yes. In fact, with a few exceptions, the different books seem to be read by different sets of people.

The exceptions to this are the old classics, which are universal in their appeal. Time is the best critic, and a book that has lived twenty or a hundred years and is still popular is a book you ought to read, for it evidently contains something of permanent human appeal.

How many there are who are anxious to know about the latest books, but whose Goethe and Dante and Homer and Schiller and Shakespeare are still undiscovered!

It will do every young person good to go back to Hawthorne and Washington Irving and Dickens, to say nothing of foreign authors, and become acquainted with the characters. The books have lived for a long while and contain an element of education that is not in the modern volumes.

There is so much attention given to style and to fine writing in these days that it is rare to find an author who has something to say and who says it clearly and succinctly.

It is a good thing to grow up with books, to have them marked with a pencil and noted with your own hand, to have them full of ideas whose meanings have been exclaimed to you with the progress of the years.

Whoever has a dozen or so of these books and refers to them again and again is indeed fortunate. For education consists not in knowing a great many books, but in knowing a few of them very well.

Horoscope

This is not a favorable day, according to astrology. Although Venus is in benefic aspect early in the morning and Saturn is friendly late in the afternoon, Jupiter, Mars, and Mercury all exercise adverse influences.

Changeable vibrations may be strongly felt while this configuration prevails, making for uncertainty and dissatisfaction with life as one finds it.

Under this planetary rule there is great need of a positive attitude of mind which will deny whatever is not constructive in thought, for there is likely to be much depression and despondency.

Women today should benefit where social or domestic matters are concerned, but the day is not an auspicious one for business.

The Moon today enters Pisces, a fixed sign which governs the feet and for this reason it is well to be wise in choosing the shoes worn under this rule of the stars.

It will be well to be careful in making agreements or entering into contracts.

Haste and lack of attention to details may be evident in today's activities, which should be watched with great patience.

Many petty losses occur under this planetary direction and it will be wise to do all sorts of work with unusual attention to the smallest matters.

When the Sun enters Cancer at the beginning of the summer quarter this year the aspects will be good for the United States government and for our international relations but this can not be said of Great Britain.

News of a disturbing character may be expected at this time, for there will be many who predict evil results from a reflection of foreign unrest.

Bright colors will be much worn by both men and women as an unconscious protest against depression due to vibrations from planetary control that is threatening to other countries.

All the signs appear to presage for the United States a season of reviving business and extending commerce.

Persons whose birthdate it is may lose money because of legal disputes. These subjects of Gemini may have a year of much business activity. The young will court and marry.

Children born on this day have the augury of good fortune in love and marriage, but they may not be vitally interested in seeking wealth.

Today's Poem

CHILD'S SONG

What is gold worth, say,
Worth for work or play,
Worth to keep or pay,
Hide or throw away.
Hope about or fear?
What is love worth, pray?
Worth a tear?

Golden on the mould
Lie the dead leaves roll'd
Of the wet woods old,
Yellow leaves and cold,
Woods without a dove;
Gold is worth but gold;
Love's worth love.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

CLARK KINNAIRD

A man may have a great mass of knowledge, but if he has not worked it up by thinking it over for himself, it has much less value than a small amount which he has thoroughly pondered.

We must learn, with Goethe, that what we do not understand we do not possess; and with Seneca, that Nature has given us the seeds of knowledge, not knowledge itself.

It is only when a man looks at his knowledge from all sides, and combines the things he knows by comparing truth with truth, that he obtains a complete hold over it and gets it into his power.

"Reading and learning are things that anyone can do of his own will, but not so THINKING," one of the wise Germans observed.

"Thinking must be kindled, like a fire by draught; it must be sustained by some interest in the matter at hand.

"This interest may be of purely objective kind, or merely subjective. The latter comes into play only in things that concern us personally. Objective interest is confined to heads that think by nature; to whom thinking is as natural as breathing; and they are very rare. This is why most men of learning show so little of it."

When a man thinks for himself, he follows the impulse of his own mind, which is determined for him at the time, either by his environment of some particular recollection.

The visible world of a man's surroundings does not, as reading does, impress a single definite thought upon his mind, but merely gives the matter and occasion which lead him to think what is appropriate to his nature and present temper.

This is why the psychologists tell us that much reading deprives the mind of all elasticity; it is like keeping a spring continually under pressure.

It is observed that the safest way to have no thoughts of one's own is to take up a book every moment one has nothing else to do.

It is this practice, we are told, which explains why erudition makes most men more stupid and silly than they are by nature.

Schopenhauer defined men of learning as those who have done their reading in the pages of a book, and thinkers and men of genius as those who have gone straight to the book of Nature.

It is the latter, he opines, who have enlightened the world and carried humanity further on its way.

Who's Who

The rise of Mary Lewis from singer in a little Arkansas church to prima donna in the grand opera world, in six swift years, is striking proof that the twentieth century American girl has pluck!

Mary Lewis was nineteen when she decided to aim for the artist's platform. That was in 1919, when she was the Sunday evening soloist of Little Rock's Presbyterian congregation. Her friends urged her to hold local glory rather than pursue visions of foreign fame. Her widowed mother needed the $30 a month that the choir work earned. But Miss Lewis took the chance of winning both money and success on the stage.

She started by joining the chorus of a vaudeville troupe. That meant four performances a day in combination movie and vaudeville houses. However, it provided money she needed, a tour to the Pacific coast and enough savings in a year to buy a railroad ticket to Broadway.

Reaching New York practically penniless, she sang in cabarets until placed in the "Greenwich Village Follies" chorus. In the first week of rehearsals, Producer John Murray Anderson discovered the richness of the girl's lyric soprano voice and promoted her from chorus to prima donna role at $100 a week.

Two years later Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., secured her for his "Follies" and the following autumn Mary Lewis reached her goal—she was invited to join the Metropolitan Opera Co.

She made her operatic debut in the National Opera House at Vienna in 1923. "Bravo! Greater than Jeritza!" her audience cheered. At the London Opera House last year music lovers called for her to bow before the curtain fifteen times. This coming winter Mary Lewis will sing in America, making a concert tour through her native Arkansas and the forty-seven sister states.

ANSWER IN FACE

The editor of the "Heart-to-Heart Talk" column of a daily newspaper received the following letter from a young man:

"Please tell me why it is that a girl closes her eyes when a fellow kisses her?"

To which the editor, in a fiendish moment replied: "Send me your photograph and perhaps I can tell you."

PUPILS PRESENT UNIQUE PROGRAM

Grand View Preparatory School Closes With Pleasing Event

Activities of the Grand View Preparatory school, 1918 West Tenth street, closed for the summer recess today, when more than fifty guests enjoyed dancing, musical and dramatic numbers by the pupils, directed by Miss Lucie B. David, principal.

The first part of the program included a Norwegian folk dance, three groups of songs, among which were, "Who Am I" (Russian), and "I Want to Be Ready" (negro melody), a model lesson in French, a short resume of the year's work, and an interpretation of the "Sylvia Ballet" by Ruth McIntyre.

Later a play, "The Knights and Ladies of the White Queen's Court," was presented. Members of the cast were The White Queen, played by Lucy Davis; Lady Beatrice, portrayed by Ruth McIntyre; Lady Margaret, by Olive Dibben; Sir Ethelbert, John Tate; Sir Roland, Joseph Zinke; Sir Percival, Richard Edgeworth; beggar, Belden Smith; poor old woman, Annie McPherson.

Chivalric Spirit

The spirit of old-time chivalry dominated the three scenes, as each knight and lady, in courtly costume, recounted to the queen some thrilling experience with dreadful dragons, or testing knights or for popular honor. The queen's decision given in the third scene, awarded to Sir Percival the medal for performing the most worthy act, when he aided a beggar, bound up his foot and helped him home. Lady Margaret was given a jeweled necklace for being kind, sympathetice and courteous to the poor old woman who sought to sell her laces to the queen.

Pupils and parents will picnic tomorrow in Brookside park, Pasadena. Lunch will be at 12:30 o'clock. Miss Davis is to have summer school during July. The fall term will open the middle of September.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Speaking before the Rotary club here Clarence Snethen, executive secretary of the Los Angeles Traffic commission, ventured the prophesy that the day would come when it would take only seven or eight minutes to get from the heart of Glendale to the heart of Los Angeles.

That, of course, is visionary, yet it is probable that the next decade will see the Pacific Electric cars operating on a schedule of 20 minutes' running time between the Subway terminal in Los Angeles and Brand and Broadway, Glendale. Motorcars will make almost as good time.

However, it will take planning and building, straightening and widening main traffic arteries, bridges, and, in the case of the Pacific Electric, it will mean that their tracks will either go over, or under, the congested boulevards.

The first subway, now in course of completion on the Glendale-Hollywood-San Fernando valley routing of the interurban line, is a great step forward. A saving of ten minutes will be made, according to General Manager D. W. Pontius of the Pacific Electric.

When the fast red cars come through the tube to Glendale boulevard and over a new and better bridge across the Los Angeles river, this city will then boast of 25-minute service from Broadway, Glendale, to Broadway, Los Angeles, with cars running every twenty minutes, or more often if the traffic demands it.

Yes, traffic planners may be visionary, but it is foresight that will build a great metropolis.

Glendale has been honored in having the final contests of Southern California Eisteddfods staged here, with many communities competing. Another year will see practically every city in the southland entering talent and it is hoped that Glendale becomes the permanent home of such events as have been held the last week.

A greater interest in the arts, particularly among the young people, is an achievement of Community Service, which locally sponsored the Eisteddfod, not to be calculated in dollars and cents. From these contests may arise noted singers, players, actors, orators and artists who will cherish the name of Glendale as the community in which they obtained their first encouragement.

Also, the training for these contests will bring here those who are already known in the world of fame and they will share in the joy of achievement by their pupils. For truly, we believe great artists get more pleasure out of reflected glory than from their own work.

Election day next Tuesday. Of course, you who read this column are going to vote!

Now it seems a shame for the people of Glendale who are interested in the welfare of the schools to beg the electors to provide for future growth, as well as imperative needs of the day in the way of more school rooms. Glendale has to face its problem of providing for the ever-increasing number of children as the population grows, that's certain.

And with the Memorial Hall bond issue, this writer as a former service man, must add that it would be pleasing to the various patriotic organizations to have a fitting home, which would serve a multitude of purposes. The issue of $150,000 bonds seems to answer their ideas. It spreads the cost over the entire community. Certainly, it is not too great a sum for something appropriate.

Many of the school classes are operating on half-day schedules now. The patriotic societies are meeting wherever their means permit. This can continue, indefinitely. But does Glendale desire to have such conditions? The writer thinks not. Therefore, there is no need of begging your vote.

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, June 12.—Sunday special services will be held at the Montrose Community church in honor of Children's day. A special program, with all classes taking part, will take up the morning session of the school including an address by Rev. Durr. All who are not affiliated with other churches are invited to attend.

Members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Montrose Community church will hold a cooked food sale on Saturday at Simpson's hardware store. Mrs. W. H. Mershon will be in charge of the sale, proceeds to be used in the church work.

Hostesses at the La Crescenta Women's club tea on Wednesday afternoon were Mrs. W. Farmer and Mrs. Howard Nuzum, who were assisted by Mrs. Marion Tillery and Mrs. W. E. Mitchelmore, who poured. The tea table was decorated with masses of seasonal blooms.

Bud Wiley, son-in-law of G. Nevlin, proprietor of the meat market at Seelig's has returned home from the hospital, where he has been for several weeks, as the result of a serious motor car accident. Mr. Wiley is the owner of the meat market in Tujunga.

Montrose Boy Scout Troop No. 1 will meet tonight in the dugout of the American Legion post building at the corner of Fairview and Mayfield avenues. Scout Leader P. MacCarton will be in charge.

Girl Scouts of La Crescenta valley will meet tonight at the Crescenta school house at 7 o'clock, with Captain Hansen in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark S. Collins and Mrs. Charles Collins will leave at noon on Saturday for a trip east. They will stop en route for their new sedan at the factory, and from there will motor to their old home in Readfield, Maine. On their return Mr. Collins will commence work on a large Spanish type house on the top of Collins hill, where the patio will command a view of the entire valley. Stuart, their son, will accompany them on the trip.

The drama section of the La Crescenta Women's club met last night at the home of the curator Mrs. Jessie Hansen, to rehearse for a skit to be given at the barn dance Saturday night. The play will be a take-off on the "New Crusade," and will be entitled "Seen Behind the Scenes," showing rehearesal with half the characters present, compelling several to take two or more parts, thus adding much action. The dinner to be given at the barn dance will be under direction of Mrs. Charles Conway of Montrose, who will be assisted in serving by members of the home economics section. Dancing will be under the supervision of Mrs. John T. Martin, secretary of the club, and Mrs. Rinette Slutman of La Canada. Several sideshows and a wiener roast will help swell the building fund of the new club home.

GLENDALE SANITARIUM AND HOSPITAL

Tomorrow night at 7 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harkness of Los Angeles will give a sacred concert at the sanitarium. Mr. Harkness is known the world over as the composer of many gospel hymns, and has traveled in many parts of the world as accompanist for the famous Chapman-Alexander evangelistic party. Mrs. Harkness has a lovely contralto voice and sings her husband's songs in a delightful manner.

Next Tuesday night the guests of the sanitarium will have a great treat. The Misses Elizabeth and Frances Copeland, artist pupils and associate teachers of Olga Steeb, will give a joint piano recital. They will play some two-piano numbers and each will give solos. They will be assisted by a tenor soloist of Los Angeles.

Oh! You Flirt

VERA SARGENT, who appears today and tomorrow with Billy Gross & Co. in vaudeville at Glendale theatre.

To those who possess a daughter of marriageable age the one-act skit of Billy Gross & Co., "Oh You Flirt," on the vaudeville bill at the Glendale theatre today and tomorrow, should make a genuine appeal. It will also strike a chord of sympathy with the young man who hesitates to ask for the hand of the young lady of his choice. The story gives Billy Gross ample scope for his recognized ability as a comedian.

William Fairbanks and Eva Novak will be in another of the Perfection series on the screen, in "Tainted Money." The picture is a knockout action drama. Fairbanks is said to do some of the best work of his career in the film.

Miss Novak is the very competent young daughter of a lumber baron who cannot get his lumber out of a tract because his competitor owns the only road in that section. There is a struggle over the road he decides to build himself, with action, thrills and romance.

The ready wit and clever topical rhyming of Hap Farnell of the team of Farnell & Florence mark them as one of the outstanding attractions of the Western Vaudeville association bill.

One of the most unusual offerings is Sang & Chung, two Chinese boys who have voices that harmonize exceptionally well and who know how and what to sing. They also have a fund of good comedy that is even more rare with Oriental acts. Peters & LaBuff have an exclusive sensational forward somersault off a high horizontal bar to a hand to hand catch that always produces a thrill.

Miss Lottie Rule provides a musical treat on saxaphone and accordion that proves the popularity of these two instruments with modern audiences.

NORMA IS SEEN IN LATEST PLAY

'The Lady' Opens at Theatre Before Capacity Crowd For Two-Day Run

Classed as Norma Talmadge's greatest achievement, "The Lady" opened last night at the Gateway to capacity crowds. The picture will run tonight and tomorrow night—for this latest photoplay of Norma's gives her many opportunities to display her remarkable emotional talents.

MAE BUSCH FILM ON COSMO BILL

'Frivolous Sal' Is Based On Story By Tarkington; O'Brien In Cast

In producing "Frivolous Sal," his latest First National picture, which opens at the Cosmo theatre today, J. K. McDonald has given the screen a worthy successor to "Boy of Mine." The latter was a Booth Tarkington story. The photoplay was so good that its success was regarded as accidental by those who knew that it was only the second picture McDonald had ever made.

But "Frivolous Sal" maintains the high standard that this young producer has set through his previous pictures. The story is his own. It was directed by Victor L. Schertzinger and the cast includes Eugene O'Brien, Mae Busch, Ben Alexander, Tom Santschi, Mitchell Lewis and Mildred Harris.

The work of these players is uniformly good. O'Brien takes a part that is entirely foreign to anything he has ever done on the screen before. It is a difficult role—that of a weak but lovable character brought to his senses only when his son lies to absolve him from complicity in a crime. Mae Busch as the girl he marries justifies the flattering tribute of Charles Chaplin when he spoke of her as the greatest actress on the screen.

Judge To Quit Bench To Become Publisher

SEATTLE, June 12.—After sitting on the King county bench for fourteen years, Superior Judge King Dykeman will doff his judicial robes next Tuesday and become publisher of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. In a letter of resignation to Governor Hartley, Judge Dykeman requests that his resignation become effective by Tuesday in order that he can enter his new field of activity. Judge Dykeman has been in charge of juvenile court and probate work and has been re-elected four times. He has had no previous experience as publisher of a daily newspaper.

played, one being a tug-of-war in which the seniors were winners, and they were awarded a box of candy. Miss Ruth Westphal, junior class president, later announced that refreshments would be served and the party hiked.

Program Given

A farewell talk to the seniors was given by Miss Westphal following which the following program was presented: Lillian Adams, class will; Anna Mae Vendal, class prophecy; Mollie Loeb, class poem. Dorothy Mevins, Helen Bates, Margurite Brown, Betty Norman, Grace Westphal, of the junior class, sang "Farewell to Thee."

After the program the party stopped at the cabin of Mrs. Jones of Pasadena where they had supper. Following the supper Miss Ruth Westphal gave a talk to the seniors, and Miss Irma White, senior class president, responded. Mrs. A. W. Truman sang "Love's Old Sweet Song"; Margurite Brown gave humorous readings; Grace Westphal and Betty Norman gave a dialogue of the senior class prophecy. Members of the faculty attending were: Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Truman, Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Vollmer, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Moore.

Grandparents Place Premium On Goodness of Young Folk

By CAL FISHER

For Southland News Service.

Grandparents are putting a premium on the youth of today "being good," it would appear from two bequests filed in Southern California superior courts this week. A boy and a girl face the forfeit of $5000 inheritances if they fail to comply with wills, as the following news dispatches indicate:

SANTA ANA, June 12.—What sort of a life does Raymond Shaffer, aged 17, Ventura, lead? If he is "honest, upright and industrious" he gets a share in his grandfather's estate, exactly $4747, it was revealed in the will filed for probate here by the Orange County Trust and Savings bank. If he is not what his grandfather, David R. Shaffer of Westminster, desired, he will receive but $25 as a legacy on his twenty-first birthday and two other heirs will get his share.

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—Lillian A. Rowan must give up any ambitions for the stage or screen until she is 25 years of age, at least, if she is to benefit from a trust fund of $5000 to provide for her education, according to the terms of the will of her grandmother, Mrs. Fannie Rowan, now being probated in the superior court. Not one cent may be spent to fit Lillian for the "stage, motion pictures, or the theatrical profession in any of its phases."

ACTRESS THREATENED

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—Police searched today for a man said to have threatened to attack Mary Harris Griffin, screen actress. The man, the officers said, stopped the actress on the street and drawing a knife threatened to kill her unless she accompanied him. A passer-by rescued the girl.

CONVENTION DELEGATES

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—Hundreds of delegates attending the Southwest Economic conference here will attend a luncheon Monday in honor of William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, it was announced today. Jardine will visit here on his way to San Francisco and other coast cities in a national survey of agricultural conditions.

Mind Reader Seeks Part of New York

SALT LAKE CITY, June 12.—Ralph Wagner, "mind reader" of Los Angeles and formerly of Salt Lake City, plans to leave here within the next few days with his attorney, Judge James W. McKinney of Salt Lake, to carry on the fight of his ancestors to obtain title to his share of 65 acres of land, on Manhattan island, said to be valued at half a billion dollars.

The property, lying in the heart of New York's business district and embracing Broadway and Wall streets, is said by Wagner to have been the estate of Robert Edwards, ancestor of Wagner. Prior to American independence, the land is said to have been leased to the English government for a 99-year period. When America won her freedom, title was transferred to the United States government and later lost sight of.

It is the contention of Wagner that the present possessors of the property are descendants of the original lessors and that he has documents which will prove his claims to ownership.

Former State Resident Passes Away In Paris

PARIS, June 12.—Charley McCarthy, 60 years old, former New York newspaper man and a native of San Francisco, died here today of apoplexy.

Un-superstitious pedestrians often do this —Proving that a post can divide two people without splitting their friendship. In the same way experienced motorists have proved to their complete satisfaction that Zerolene, a western oil, will lubricate the modern automobile engine as well or a little better than any oil they can buy, although it costs less than eastern lubricants.

The anti-western oil superstition succumbs to experience

Zerolene is successfully lubricating more cars in the Pacific Coast states than any other oil made—low and high priced cars alike. The most advanced refining process is this Company's patented high-vacuum process, during the use of which Zerolene is submitted to 15 positive checks for quality. Zerolene's special filtration through 40 tons of Florida Fuller's Earth gives you an oil of absolute purity—a better oil if it does cost less!

Less carbon—better fuel mileage

Zerolene will increase the power and gasoline mileage of your car, reduce carbon accumulation in the cylinders and lengthen the working life of the engine.

Why pay tribute to a superstition? Insist on Zerolene—ask for it by name.

Name This New Store And Win $10.00

Glendale is known throughout California as a city of fine drug stores, and the new pharmacy being opened Saturday by Harold E. Pratt, at the corner of California and Central avenue is no exception, as the equipment is modern in every detail. The store occupies 1200 feet of floor space and all merchandise is displayed in a most attractive manner.

Mr. Pratt, formerly a Los Angeles druggist, has had fifteen years of practical experience as a registered pharmisist, and is thoroughly acquainted with every angle of the retail drug business.

A large number of special features have been planned to make tomorrow, the opening day, an unqualified success. In addition to many money-saving specials, free ice cream will be served throughout the day to visitors; a free balloon will be presented to all children visiting the store accompanied by their parents; a half pound box of high-grade chocolates will be presented free to every patron making a purchase of $1 or over; a package of linen envelopes will be given with every tablet purchased and a special radio program will be given.

Much interest has also been occasioned by the announcement that $10 will be awarded to the person suggesting the name that will be selected for this new drug store. Anyone can participate. All that is necessary is to write out a suitable name and leave it in a box at the store. From the suggestions a name will be drawn at 9 o'clock Saturday evening.

All Glendale is cordially invited to this opening, and Mr. Pratt and his assistants state that they will do all in their power to make the event a memorable one.

Congratulations and Sincere Good Wishes

To Harold E. Pratt

We assure you that we will endeavor to keep you supplied with a line of chocolates that will be pleasing and satisfactory to your patrons.

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

Milk and Sunlight

Mrs. J.—Milk from a pasture-fed cow has a much higher anti-rachitic value than the milk from a stall-fed cow. This is due to two reasons.

The pasture-fed cow is getting fresh green grass which is much higher in the vitamins than the winter fodder, and she is also getting the sunlight.

We have always known that the sunlight was necessary for plants and that it was beneficial to animals, but we never quite appreciated that it was so beneficial and necessary for good health in the animal kingdom as well as in the vegetable kingdom.

Work is being done now which indicates that foods which are treated with especially constructed lights, which give off the ultra-violet rays in concentrated form (the same rays that the sun gives off, more diluted), will hold these rays so that they become more valuable foods. I'll write more on this later.

See that your child and yourself are out of doors and in the sunlight as much as possible.

Large Tonsils May Be Normal

Mrs. L. G.—From all I read and hear on the subject, throat specialists do not believe that enlarged tonsils should be removed unless they give definite symptoms of obstruction; that is, unless they prevent breathing through the nose, or unless they are diseased.

It is quite normal for a child to have larger tonsils than an adult. A child with a large nasal pharynx (the space at the back of the nose and throat) might have tonsils that look much larger than another child's and still not have an obstruction caused by them. The tonsils are not always at the base of trouble with the nose and throat and ears. There may be a primary trouble in these parts, and a specialist will investigate these as well as the tonsils before assuming that the primary trouble lies with the tonsils.

Bow Legs

Mrs. B.—Occasionally, bow legs will develop without rickets, although usually rickets is the cause of much bowing.

Cases of bowing often right themselves both when rickets is a cause, when the rickets is cured, and when rickets is not to be considered a factor.

(We have an article on Rickets.) You may have this or other articles we mention by sending self-addressed and stamped envelope with your request.)

Swollen Neck Glands

Mrs. O.—Glands may be enlarged in the neck from infection of the head and neck, such as sores caused by scratching when there are pediculi (lice), and from infections from the nose and throat, particularly the infections due to adenoids and diseased tonsils. They may be enlarged during some general infections such as infectious fevers, and in general anemia.

They will remain swollen until the cause is removed. You must take your child to a children's clinic or welfare station or to a private physician and find out what the cause is and have it removed, Mrs. O.

Bad Posture

Mrs. J.—Children should not be allowed to carry books all of the time under one arm, or slung over one shoulder; or to skate on one roller skate on the same foot every day; nor allowed to assume habitual bad postures in studying, etc. All these things cause the unsymmetrical development of the spine, which we know as curvatures. They may affect the health markedly.

Mrs. B.—Please send for the list of books on sex hygiene. There is no subject of greater importance.

Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e., if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

If any room in the house needs sunlight, it is the dining room. For sunlight contributes to cheerfulness; and cheerfulness is absolutely necessary to us during meals, to aid digestion.

Yet there are many homes in which the dining room has a northern exposure. And where this is the case, there is only one thing to do: create the effect of sunshine, with warm buffs, tans, and yellow decorations. I have recently seen a dining room decorated in this way, and I am going to describe it for the benefit of the woman who is faced with the sunless-dining room problem:

The walls were papered in plain yellow—not too bright, not too pale. It made a splendid background for several sepia photographs of buildings in Europe, which were hung upon it, framed in brown.

The furniture, too, was brown—American walnut. It consisted of a large dining table, six chairs, a buffet, a serving table, and a tea cart. The woodwork was cream color. A bow window, draped with cream scrim "glass" curtains, gave the room plenty of light. (There were no window over-drapes).

The floor was stained walnut under its varnish; it was covered to within two feet of the wall, all around, by a brown Wilton rug. Between meals, an ecru filet runner was thrown across the table, upon which stood a yellow bowl filled with artificial nasturtiums. The cloth on buffet and on the serving table matched this table runner.

The articles on the buffet were: a yellow china candlestick at either end, and a brown carved wooden fruit bowl in the center. On the serving table stood a large brown-mahogany tray filled with tall glasses grouped about a glass pitcher—deliciously suggestive of iced beverages served on the porch on a warm afternoon!

"Well, has it paid to redecorate this room?" I asked the woman who had so cleverly disguised the fact that it was sunless.

"A hundred times!" she declared, "Before, when it was papered in green, my husband and I used to sit down to meals with a depression we could not put our finger on. Now we just love to be in here."

Tomorrow—Home-Made Bread

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Ample Stocks Now On Hand Says Merchant

"There is no need for patrons of the Coast-to-Coast Army Store, Brand at Harvard, to worry about outfitting themselves with summer clothes," said S. D. Goldsmith, proprietor, this morning. Coincident with our opening of a new store in Pasadena, large stocks of new merchandise have been received and part of these shipments have been allotted to the Glendale store, he said.

Work clothes, hiking and outing clothes, as well as dress apparel and shoes are featured at this store.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

WHERE OLD AGE SHOWS

Some women show their age first in wrinkles around the corners of the eyes, less often by lines that run down each side of the mouth. But one absolute give-away of approaching middle-age few women see. That is the place just under the chin, where the chin line runs into the neck. The skin here begins either to pucker, or else to bag.

If you are under 27 years of age you need not bother about this unless you have been very ill, but if you are 27 or thereabouts, keep a very careful watch over this part of your face. If your skin is inclined to be dry you will notice now and then a series of little lines or puckers radiating from the throat toward the chin. If your skin is oily, and particularly if you are overweight, you will notice a slight bagginess as though a little pocket of extra flesh were forming under the skin.

Begin your treatment in either case by washing the face with soap and very hot water, holding a face cloth wrung from hot water over the part to be treated. Then, if the skin is dry, use flesh-building cream, but if it is merely oily, use cleansing cream. Massage thoroughly with the finger tips, running the fingers back and forth from the chin down the throat. Take a small piece of ice, and, having first wiped off the cream, rub the skin with the ice, rubbing it back and forth against the skin for five or ten minutes. Wipe dry and powder. You will be surprised how young and smooth and fresh all that part of the face looks.

If this condition is new, a treatment once a week is sufficient, but if the chin is very bad, two or even three times a week is better.

Beauty Seeker—Your hair in childhood must have been the flaxen gold which always changes to brown as you grow older, and your little sister will likely have the same experience as you have had with yours. If you could do anything to keep it that shade it would not be becoming to you after adult age. Your weight of

Beware of wrinkles under here

104 pounds at 15 years of age with a height of five feet, four inches, is all right if you are in good health, as you are growing tall first and will likely fill out and increase your weight after you get your height.

Tomorrow—A Hasty Manicure

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Surprise Shower

Miss Mabel Gaarder of 126 West Garfield street, who is to become the bride of David Griffiths of 804 East Acacia avenue, July 11, was delightfully honored last night, when a large company of her friends were guests at a surprise shower at the home of Mrs. R. S. Todd, 416 North Maryland avenue. A profusion of early summer flowers were used in decoration in the various rooms of the Todd home.

The music room was most artistically decorated as the bride's room, and it was there that the gifts were cleverly presented to the honoree. A unique musical program was given by Miss Mabel Todd, daughter of the hostess, and Miss Coral Atkins of Los Angeles, well known entertainer, who is heard over radio station KHJ. Miss Atkins played Mendelssohn's "Love Song"; Miss Todd sang "Will You Remember Me"; and as Miss Gaarder entered the music room, Miss Atkins played the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin." Both Miss Gaarder and Mr. Griffiths are well known in Glendale, having attended and graduated from Glendale Union High school. The company at the shower presented the bride-elect with many lovely gifts for her new home.

Guests were Mrs. William Wattles, Mrs. W. B. Sherwood, Mrs. A. H. Gaarder, Mrs. Dolliver Webb, Mrs. J. Patterson, Mrs. Charles Griffiths, Misses Griffiths, Mrs. Sando, Mrs. Edward Strong, Mrs. Pom Paul, Mrs. Harry Gorman, Mrs. Howard Gaarder, Miss Mae Cornwell, Miss Dorothy Peterson, Miss Mabel Todd, Miss Alice Gaarder, Miss Ethel Burke, Miss Kathryn Stanley of Glendale; Mrs. George Atkins, Miss Coral Atkins of Los Angeles. Hostesses were Mesdames R. S. Todd, John Fox, T. B. Curtis, William Peterson, George Peterson, Burt Roberts.

Eastern Star

Candidates will be initiated tonight at 8 o'clock at the meeting of Glen Eyrie Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, at Masonic Temple, 232 South Brand boulevard. Mrs. Mae Warrick, worthy matron, will preside.

Wed in Hollywood

At a wedding ceremony last night, Thursday, June 11, 1925 at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Isaac, 2053 Rodney drive, Hollywood, Miss Iva A. Poorman of Los Angeles, became the bride of Rev. Levi C. Yeoman of 601 North Jackson street. Rev. Harrison, pastor of the Atlantic Avenue Methodist church of Long Beach, performed the ceremony, assisted by Dr. Brown, pastor of University church, Los Angeles. The wedding was attended by 100 relatives and friends.

Decorations for the wedding were in charge of W. F. Drews, of the American Florist shop, 1344 East Colorado street, Glendale. Palms and ferns formed a background, while plumosis interspersed with sweet peas was used in decoration to give the effect of an archway. Baskets of gladioli and sweetpeas were used in profusion throughout the Isaac home. A large wedding bell made of white sweetpeas and lilies-of-the-valley was suspended from the center of the archway, beneath which the ceremony was performed.

Preceding the ceremony and throughout the evening musical selections were given by Miss Anola Wright, pianist; and Mr. Miller, and his daughter, Miss Louise, played harps. The bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played. Miss Luella Poughty sang "God Make Thee Mine" and Miss Carrie Ruth of Sierra Madre sang "Because".

The bride wore a white fleur-de-lis crepe dress trimmed with beads and rhinestones. She wore a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair and carried a shower bouquet of orchids, bride's roses, lilies-of-the-valley and Cecil Brunner roses.

Mrs. Hattie Doughty of Los Angeles, was matron of honor. She wore a grey dress and carried a shower bouquet of Premier roses and orchid sweetpeas. Miss Lilly Dribble of Los Angeles, was bridesmaid. She was dressed in coral georgette, beaded, and carried a shower of pink sweetpeas and Cecil Brunner roses. H. H. Henderson of Glendale, was best man. Margaret Jaberg of Anaheim, a great niece of Mr. Yeoman, was flower girl. She wore lavender georgette over silk and carried a basket of pink sweetpeas and baby breath.

After the ceremony a reception was held. The wedding cake formed the centerpiece on the table, a novel arrangement of Cecil Brunner, roses and lilies-of-the-valley being used as decoration. Mr. and Mrs. Yeoman left for a honeymoon trip to Santa Barbara and after August 1 they will be at home to their friends at 601 North Jackson street. Mrs. Yeoman is a former missionary, having been stationed in Mexico. She has recently been matron of the Frances Willard Home in Los Angeles. Mr. Yeoman, who is well known as a Glendale resident, is pastor of the Parkdale Garden church, near Elysian Park.

Benefit Dance

A benefit dance will be given tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock by Glendale Rebekah Lodge and the Odd Fellows Lodge at 201 West Broadway. Mrs. Adelaide Meyers is general chairman and will be assisted by Mrs. Marjorie Pease, Mrs. Evelyn Hall, Wynn Groutage, Henry Hollenbeck, and Dan Hall, hospitality committee; Mrs. Mayme Rich and Mrs. Viola Ertel, tickets; Charles Pease, Ernest Rich and A. Kellas Hartley, refreshments. Music for dancing will be furnished by an orchestra in charge of Mrs. Lola B. Justice.

A reception in honor of Mrs. May Reynolds, warden of the Rebekah Assembly will be given tonight by Eidelweiss Rebekah Lodge, of Los Angeles, at the new Odd Fellows hall, corner of Oak street and Washington boulevard, Los Angeles. Several members of Glendale Rebekah Lodge will attend the affair.

Surprise Honor

Misses Millicent Foulke, Ruth Darby and Eva Irby were hostesses Wednesday night at a surprise farewell party for Miss La Vaughn Mossberg at her home, 1308 South Adams street. Miss Mossberg is leaving this month for a visit in Utah. Bunco and dancing formed entertainment for the evening, music being furnished by Miss Maeryne Seale. Refreshments were served later. Guests were: Mary Ann Meirs, Ella May, Mary Margaret Boyles, Phyllis Hollander, Esther Elliott, Maeryne Seale, Jocelle Bush, La Vaughn Mossberg and the hostesses.

C. E. Delegates

Misses May Sullivan and Gertrude Ashton and John Server were elected delegates to attend the national Christian Endeavor convention July 4 to July 10 at Portland, Oregon, at the meeting last night of the Christian Endeavor society of Tropico Presbyterian church at the home of Miss Norma Wallace, 1047 South Boynton avenue. Miss Wallace, president, directed a short business meeting.

Royal Neighbors

Glendale Royal Neighbors will give a dance tonight at 8:30 o'clock at Odd Fellows hall, 201 West Broadway. Music for dancing will be furnished by Brand's orchestra. T. H. Rucker will be in charge of the dance. No admission will be charged. Mrs. Maud Rucker, oracle, announces a short business meeting preceding the dance.

Baptist Union

Election of officers and the annual birthday luncheon were special features yesterday at the all-day meeting of the Women's union of First Baptist church at the church. The affair was in charge of Mrs. J. Ray Bentley, chairman of district No. 9, assisted by Mrs. Robert Morrow, social chairman. Four long tables representing seasons of the year were arranged for the luncheon. Guests were seated at the various tables according to their birth months.

Hostesses at table No. 1, representing January, February and March were Mesdames Paul Elliott and W. F. Owens. Green and white, suggestive of St. Patrick's day, were used to decorate the table, a large basket of daisies forming the centerpiece. Other decorative features were flags, and shamrocks, and green baskets were favors. Table No. 2 represented April, May and June, hostesses being Mesdames J. Roger Bentley and George Bentley. A maypole in pastel shades of crepe paper was the centerpiece, while a June bride, white candles, basket favors with doll bridesmaids were other decorations. Hostesses at table No. 3 were Mesdames Eugene Spillman and M. D. Wonacott, the table representing July, August and September. Red, white and blue streamers decorated the entire length of the table, while a bouquet of flowers in patriotic colors formed the centerpiece. Other decorations were white candles decorated in red and blue, small cannons and mints in patriotic colors. Table No. 4 represented October, November and December, hostesses being Mesdames H. W. Chase, Perry Maxwell and Rene Olin, decorations being suggestive of the holiday season. A miniature Santa Claus formed the centerpiece, while small Christmas trees decorated either end of the table. Favors were boutonnieres of red and green flowers. Covers were laid for 140.

During the morning, White Cross sewing was done and after the luncheon a business meeting was directed by Mrs. H. Park Arnold, president. Annual reports of officers and chairmen were given the outstanding report being that of the calling committee, which showed that 13,000 calls had been made during the year.

Rev. E. E. Ford, pastor of the church, acted as installing officer following the election, installing as officers: Mrs. H. Park Arnold, president; Mrs. Wayland Wood, first vice-president; Mrs. Robert Morrow, second vice-president; Mrs. Robert McGill, fourth vice-president; Mrs. F. H. Robinson, secretary and Mrs. M. J. Piercey, treasurer. Mrs. E. E. Ford assisted by Mrs. G. H. Rowe and Mrs. Rugg conducted the devotional service. Mrs. J. Roger Bentley was in charge of the program. Miss Beatrice Doxsee gave piano solos; Miss Allen, violin solos, accompanied by her mother; Mrs. Turner, vocal numbers, with Mrs. W. L. Schneider, accompanist. A one-act play "Aunt Elizabeth's Musical Tea," directed by Mrs. Fred Abbey, was presented by Mesdames A. Van Wormer, Wayland Wood and C. R. McCarty. No meetings of the organization will be held during the summer.

Salt Lake Club

Mrs. T. H. Hudson of 640 North Central avenue was hostess yesterday afternoon at the monthly meeting of the Salt Lake Eastern Star club of Southern California. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock for twenty-two guests. Mrs. Ada K. Hartenstein, junior past worthy grand matron of Utah, was guest of honor. Other guests were: Mesdames R. L. Conely, E. B. Langston and George O. Goodwin, all of Salt Lake, Utah. Mrs. Nellie C. Jennings, president, directed the business meeting. Bridge was played later, Mrs. Spahr receiving prize for high score. The next meeting will be held on July 9 at Long Beach. Glendale members present were: Dr. Elizabeth Early, Mesdames Roy Watrous, Carl Berg, Emery Standiford, Nellie C. Jennings and T. H. Hudson.

At Rockhold Home

Mrs. J. E. Rockhold of 330 Burchett street, was hostess all day Wednesday to the Women's auxiliary of the Rainbow Division veterans' organization. Luncheon was served at noon to sixteen women, many of them from out of town, coming from Orange, Redondo and Los Angeles. Mrs. Grace Kitt, president, conducted the business meeting. A feature of especial interest was the reading of a letter from an absent member, Mrs. Hugh Freeman, in which she gave an interesting account of the trip to Washington, D. C., and New York, and the voyage through the Panama Canal, crossing of the equator, and arrival in Chili, where she and Mr. Freeman are to be located for the present. The afternoon was spent in sewing for philanthropic work. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Grace Kitt and Mrs. Bill Williams of Los Angeles.

Honor Pianist

Miss Lucile Beach of 327 Riverdale drive, talented young pianist, received many congratulations last night on her successful appearance at an enoyable musical, given by four advanced pupils of Olive Smith Boone at the Friday Morning club, Los Angeles. Miss Beach wore a lovely gown of georgette in pastel blue with rose flowers. She gave charming interpretations of "If I Were a Bird" (Henselt); "Nocturne" (Schumann) and "The Juggleress" (Moszkowski). Her technique is excellent and movements of unusual ease. Thirty or more guests motored in from Glendale for the occasion. Miss Beach received many beautiful flowers. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Beach and is a member of the graduating class at Glendale Union High school.

Favoritism For Ferry, Declares Councilman

Editor The Evening News: My opposition at yesterday's City Council session to the granting of free permits to Peter Ferry to move thirteen small houses was not of a personal nature at all. But I consider it a case of favoritism pure and simple. As a method of conducting public business I am diametrically opposed to it. No vote was taken on the application, but by "mutual understanding" it will no doubt go through and the public treasury will be $65 short of what it should be. The fact that he was required to move his mule camp after delays covering weeks, months and years should not relieve him of paying the customary moving fees that all others pay. W. F. TOWER.

BURGLARY CHARGE

Tony Pedraza, 310 Vine street, janitor of a local office building, was arrested early today by Patrolman Wisdom and is being held at the city jail for Los Angeles police. He is wanted in that city on a charge of burglary, according to local officers.

Bay Of Bengal Is Visited By Traveler

hoping to land at 8:30 tonight at Colombe, its capital city.

All afternoon we have been steaming along the western shore of Ceylon. Far away in the distance great mountains push their noses high up into the clouds and vast jungles of tropical plants and trees fill in the intervening background. All along the low-lying sandy beach can be seen great groves of cocoanut trees, and, even as I write here in my deck chair, a herd of wild elephants emerge from the jungle and come dashing down into the sea where they are disporting themselves in utter abandon, and I am certain if we were a little closer to shore we would find the trees infested with bands of chattering monkeys. For these are the tropics, and Ceylon is the Orient at its best.

I wonder why we Occidentals hear so little of Hong Kong? Surely there are few places on earth so picturesque, and none more so. Victoria is the name the British have tried to give to the city, and Hong Kong is the island; but Hong Kong it all is called and apparently it will never be anything else.

Hong Kong belongs to Great Britain. That is, Great Britain has taken possession of it, and, with customary buildog tenacity, she intends to hold on to it. Perhaps it is just as well, for she has already done much for the city as well as the entire island.

The side of the island upon which the city is built is little better than a mountain rising abruptly from the water's edge to a height of 2000 feet. Practically all of the streets running at right angles to the ocean with the exception of a narrow strip near the water's edge, are merely stone stairways extending inland till the abrupt steepness of the mountain makes further progress impossible. This condition brings into being a new type of conveyance, viz: "chairmen." Not the dignitaries of feast and foible whom we distinguish by that title in the Occident, but plain, every-day, hard-working coolies who carry you, two to a chair, upon their sturdy shoulders.

Of course, on the level stretches there are still found the rickshaw men, and Hong Kong, as also Shanghai, boasts also a trackless trolley, that is, an electric car without rails, and receiving its own power from a double overhead wire.

No pen can adequately describe the beauty of Hong Kong as seen from the bay. Because of the limited ground area avaliable the people have been forced up into the air, and the entire business district is made up of four and five story buildings with open area fronts for light and sunshine. These same open balconies extend out over the sidewalks, thus sheltering pedestrians from the terrific heat as well as from the torrential rains in their season. All over the island this open-areade type of architecture prevails. Great mansion houses and private residences of superb beauty adorn each knoll and hummock right up to the top of the mountain. Seen from the bay the effect is that of a series of tiers of postoffice boxes without doors.

Inland a few steps from the water front, however, we are again in the midst of China. I paused at a butcher shop to watch the crowd bargaining and haggling over the delicacies (?) hung on strings of grass out in the dust and the flies and the filth, and consisting of plucks, entrails, bladders, and practically everything indigeneous to the inside of an animal, that our less esthetic western taste relegates to the sewer. The butcher, a sturdy young Chink, clad only a breech clout, hacked deftly away the skins of three sheep and then feeling the need of a respite, he came forward to the front of the shop, his limbs and torso all bespattered with blood, and stood there nonchalantly exchanging comments with the customers.

Encounter Storm

Hundreds of other incidents, peculiarly Chinese, might be cited but space will not permit. In an auto we rode all the way round the island, stopping for a brief spell at the beautiful Repulse Bay hotel, on the far side, and experiencing a new thrill of delight at each succeeding turn. If you come to the Orient whatever you do do not fail to visit Hong Kong.

Our stay here was altogether too brief, but having a world to girdle, we reluctantly pushed out again into the China sea. Here we struck some real "weather" and for two days most of the habitues of the dining room were conspicuous for their absence.

Bright and early on the morning of the fourth day we steamed proudly into Manila harbor. In memory I went back to that morning of May 1, 1898, when Dewey, brave, resourceful old Dewey, with his worn and undermanned fleet, blazed his way triumphantly through the Spanish squadron and took possession of the islands in the name of our honorable Uncle Samuel.

Manila Different

Manila of today, however, is a far different Manila from the swampy, disease-infested excuse for a city that confronted Dewey. Under American supervision the present Manila is a clean, respectable, and in many particulars, a beautiful city. The Army and Navy club, the Elks' club, and the beautiful Manila hotel occupy commanding positions fronting on the ocean and the Luneta (plaza), and there are many fine residences in the new part of the city.

But the part of fascinating interest to the visitor is the old walled city of Intramuros with its thick, arched doorways and its portcullis and moat. Save for the presence of the enterprising Chinese merchants who have invaded its precincts in recent years, Intramuros is today as typical of old Spain as is Barcelona or Valencia. Its dignified old churches, dressed in colors of pink and white and adorned with saintly images, dating back to the sixteenth century; the monks in their close-fitting skull caps and cassocks hearing "confessions"; the thick-walled doorways opening into the enclosed patios; the soft chiming of the church bells; the indolent Spanish men and the dark-haired senoritas peeping out from behind latticed windows, or parading in their dainty lace gowns with their peculiar stiff shoulder effect—altogether it makes up an atmosphere of restfulness and repose that refreshes one like a summer breeze.

Modern Golf Links

Outside the city the old moai that once proved such a formidable barrier to the attacks of the enemy has been transformed into modern golf links, under municipal control, and its popularity is attested by the many devotees who frequent it even on the hottest days.

Everywhere one sees white "duck" and "drill" clothing in evidence, with an occasional dash of blue on the collars or caps of the sailor lads who come and go in launch-fulls all day long from the naval base at Cavite, across the bay. Unique little "calesas"—spring carts drawn by small native "caballo" ponies—furnish conveyance at a nominal price to any part of the city, and there are also several lines of modern electric car service.

A splendid auto road skirts the Pasig river out to Fort McKinley, and this leads through a region of native grass huts set on stilts, as crude and primitive as in the days before the white man came near.

In the beautiful Manila hotel one sits in luxurious ease at dinner, out on the wide veranda of the dining room, while the cooling breeze of the evening comes like a benediction after the torrid heat of the day, and the twinkling lights of the various water craft out in the bay flash like fireflies through the tropical twilight.

Two unique experiences are uppermost in the minds of the ladies of our party—we sleep at night under a canopy of mosquito netting (I felt for all the world like Queen Elizabeth) and lizards run rampant and unmolested through the halls and bedrooms of the hotel. The latter are entirely harmless and are great "eliminators" of flies and insects, hence are encouraged in their activities, but it takes considerable persuasive power, not unmixed with guile, to induce the ladies to appreciate the propriety of the thing.

Meantime the lady from Amarillo, Texas, who sits at our table, says she's going to have a "facial" and her hair trimmed and wonders if it will still wave.

How I Won at Indianapolis

By Peter DePaolo

"Then I heard it—the crowd! Even above the deafening roar of the exhaust, it came to me."

HOW did I do it? Absolutely perfect performance of motor, gasoline and tires, of course. And confidence. Confidence—yes, and I'll confess a lot of superstition. For superstition gave me the confidence which told me before the race that this time I was going to win!

In the first place, 13 is my lucky number—this was Indianapolis' thirteenth race. The baby shoe of Tommy, my youngster of nineteen months, was wired to my front axle. To top it off, I had a "lucky" gasoline in my tank; a gasoline which had won the great Indianapolis classic five consecutive times.

I didn't even feel the need of a rabbit's foot!

Little need to re-tell the race statistics. Newspaper readers know all about the average speed, pit stops, and so on. About all I can add are my own special sensations as my Duesenberg swept past car after car in the race that broke every track record from ten miles on, establishing a new world's record of 101.13 miles per hour!

Then that "grand and glorious feeling" of winning!

The "sporty" brick-paved Indianapolis track offers little monotony. Its very dangers prevent that. But, with hands and feet and brain coordinated on the job of winning, I was almost unconscious of the terrific pace. Only messages from my alert pit attendants gave me the news from time to time.

From the start I took the lead and held it in a terrific grind of speed for the first quarter of the race. Then, "Red" Shafer—my team mate—who, trailed by Harry Hartz, had been closely pressing me, finally swept past in a big burst of speed.

For 25 miles I raced after "Red" before I was able to regain first place. But I was only leader for 10 laps. Harry Hartz in a breath taking sprint passed us both.

For a time—hours, it seemed—I was third. Then I passed someone on the back-stretch. It might have been a tail-ender for all I knew. But the slate message told me:

I had sped into second!

Only 280 more miles to go. Then past Hartz, and into first place again.

With a certain caution (for there's no use spilling or breaking up when sane speed will put one into the "money") I maintained my pace. At 275 miles, with the race more than half over, Ralph Hepburn doing some beautiful driving at the turns, took the lead. He held it for the next 38 miles. Then Earl Cooper crept ahead.

Cooper, unlucky devil, smashed into the wall on the back stretch and was out of it after a heady race for 340 miles.

During much of this time I had been resting in the pits. Norman Batten, my relief driver, was at the wheel. Dave Lewis, who had streaked into the lead with a front-wheel-drive Miller at 325 miles, was leading by over a half lap when Batten eased into the pit and I slipped back of the wheel again.

Only a few minutes to go—but a half lap between victory and second place.

The thought flashed, here was no time for caution. Better "win or lose it all!"

I stepped on it—hard. Nobly the singing motor responded. Reserve power in the gas counted then. Good old Richfield!

Into the death curves, scarcely shutting off. That car ahead—that flying blur so hard to pass. I knew it—it must be the Lewis machine.

I crept up—inch by inch—on the car in front. Abreast of him on the back stretch. He gained at the turn. Radiator and radiator, we flashed down the home stretch in a duel of speed.

Then I heard it—the crowd! Even above the deafening roar of the exhaust, it came to me. My friends there—Lewis's friends—cheering our battle.

One supreme effort at the turn—one final flirt with Lady Luck.

"Now, boy!" I told myself.

And then I stepped on it. Lewis—splendidly fearless pilot that he is—didn't have quite enough speed. I had just an extra measure of reserve. I passed him!

Presently Lewis slowed, went into the pits. For relief, Bennet Hill substituting, I after learned. But almost instantaneously, it seemed, the same car was back on the track—menacing me.

Out in front. Just a few more laps now—with Hill thundering at the tail of my car.

Then—with the winner's flag almost in sight I knew I had only to hold my own and as I bore down on the throttle and felt the instant response of power, I was thankful that once more

SEEK NAME FOR LITTLE THEATRE

Playhouse Expected To Be Of Big Value In Bringing Out Local Talent

The Little Theatre movement has gained recognition and been of material aid to many players throughout the United States in recent years. Many well known to the theatre today received their start in a Little Theatre. And now Glendale is to have its own. Any who are interested in the theatre will be given a try-out on casting nights which will be announced from now on.

The first production of this new organization will open at the Playhouse of the Tuesday Morning club on the evening of June 22 for a six nights' run. It is to be "Icebound," a story of small-town life in northern Maine from the pen of Owen Davis and awarded the Pulitzer prize for the best play of 1922.

The management of the new theatre seeks a suitable name for it and a contest is being held in which residents of Glendale are asked to send in suggestions. The prize is two season tickets and the contest ends Saturday night. Address all letters in care of the Playhouse at the Tuesday Morning club.

REPORT PROPERTY SALES IN ATWATER

Two Los Feliz Corners Will Be Sites For Class A Structures; Other Realty Deals Are Pending

The sale of two important Los Feliz boulevard corners and announcement of plans for their improvement with Class A commercial structures, featured real estate activities in the Atwater district today.

The southeast corner of Los Feliz boulevard and Boyce avenue was purchased by Charles M. Cotton. The corner has a frontage on Los Feliz of 112 feet. The sale price was reported to have been $200 per front foot.

J. E. Fleming of the Lasky film studios announced the acquisition of 195 feet fronting on Los Feliz at the northeast corner of Brunswick avenue. It was said this property also sold for $200 per front foot.

Permanent improvement of both corners was announced by the new owners. Plans for structures which will occupy the sites have not been completed as yet.

With the announcement of a half dozen big realty deals along Los Feliz boulevard recently, plans for a number of new business structures under way, and widening and improvement of the street, to be started shortly, it was predicted today by E. J. Schallert of the realty firm of Schallert & Jones that boulevard frontage would soon soar to $500 per front foot. Mr. Schallert's concern owns more than 1000 feet on the boulevard, which is not for sale at present, he said. The completion of the new Los Feliz bridge, widening and paving of the street and installation of new sidewalks, sewers and ornamental street lights, will advance the value of property in the vicinity more than 100 per cent, Mr. Schallert predicted.

The ordinance of intention, ordering the improvement of the boulevard, was passed by the Los Angeles City Council yesterday. The protest period will expire June 22. Following that, bids will be advertised for, it was announced. The last span in the new Los Feliz bridge, giving adequate traffic facilities over the Los Angeles river, was completed yesterday, also. The roadbed will now be laid over the bridge.

Brush Fire Spreads

A brush fire that got out of control destroyed more than a dozen large walnut trees valued at $1000 and threatened the destruction of a number of dwellings in the Walnut Grove district when the flames were fanned by a stiff afternoon wind. Quick response of the Los Angeles fire department saved the homes of half a dozen residents of the Grove and held the damage from the fire to a minimum. The blaze started near Los Feliz and Vesselligh street and spread rapidly.

Arrange Yearly Plans

Executive officers and committee heads of the Atwater Community Improvement association, scheduled to meet tonight to outline a working plan for the next year, will not hold their session until next Tuesday night, President Arthur M. Gilman announced.

Residents Catch Grunions

More than 150 persons from the Atwater district who formed several large grunion fishing parties at beach towns Thursday night returned home with the "limit," the limit being the capacity of the receptacles they took in which to carry the small fish.

Returns From Hospital

Mrs. J. R. Bernard of Valleybrink road is home from the hospital after an attack of blood poisoning resulting from the prick of a rose thorn which she sustained while working in her garden. According to attending surgeons, the rose bush had been sprayed with arsenic of lead, which infected the wound, causing blood poisoning. Whether or not Mrs. Bernard will fully recover without an operation is not yet certain, doctors said.

MANY AIDED BY WELFARE BUREAU

Report On Part Of This Year Shows Much Good Work Is Accomplished

A summary of work done from January 1 to June 1 of this year, was given Tuesday night at the board meeting of Glendale Welfare council at the city hall. Mrs. E. D. Yard was presiding officer. There were present: Mrs. Yard, president; Mrs. L. T. Rowley, first vice-president; Mrs. L. W. Sinclair, treasurer; Mrs. Frank Ayars, secretary; Mrs. Edith Dockeray, director. The summary showed that seventy-eight needy cases had been assisted, and employment secured for forty persons.

Mrs. Sinclair, director of the Welfare bureau, reported for April and May: Home visits, sixty-nine; interviews at office and home, forty-four; families assisted, forty-eight; new cases, 21; employment secured for twenty persons. The report for the council was: Articles of clothing given out, 645; two mattresses and beds, couch and cover; twenty-six quarts canned fruit; two comforts, three sheets and four pillow cases. Disbursements were: Ten checks, $58, for relief; two milk bills paid, $9.15; groceries, $6.59; gas bill, 80 cents; dry goods, $5.47.

The bureau maintains headquarters at 225 East Broadway where contributions of clothing are received. Mrs. Sinclair is in charge from 9 a. m. to 12 noon.

Dr. W. W. Townsend says: "I ride horseback because I prize my sleep, my digestion, my think trap and enjoy ... 'great big out-of-doors'." Saddle horses for hire, 1 hour, $1.50, 2 hours, $2. Oakmont Saddle Stables, Montrose. Phone Glendale 2243-J-1-2.—Advertisement. 6/12-13.

We Sponsor the Memorial Hall Bond Election June 16, 1925
—BECAUSE—

1—Our soldiers and sailors—the men and women who offered and gave their lives in all America's wars—are worthy the modest memorial planned.

2.—The hall will provide a center and school for patriotism, an efficient aid to the children's schools which we earnestly support. It will provide a home for any and all service organizations desiring to use it. At present almost all such societies meet here, there, and anywhere they can, rent and overhead holding down their membership and funds needed for civic and patriotic endeavors.

3.—Glendale is one of the very few cities similar in size and ambition which has not erected an adequate token of appreciation to its veterans.

4.—The memorial—neither ornate nor luxurious but substantial and serviceable—will be built, owned and controlled by the city and located where city authorities may determine.

5.—The American Legion, true to its promise, is turning in the site voted them two years ago to be used or sold as may be deemed best. The Patriotic and Memorial Hall association, if made custodian of the memorial, plans to maintain and care for it.

6.—The cost is ridiculously small in proportion to the great benefits to be derived from this great civic asset. To the average taxpayer—less than "a pint of ice cream per year."

7.—Because we know the people did not forget their sons and daughters during the trying days of war and steadfastly believe they will not forget them now.

—VOTE YES FOR THE MEMORIAL BONDS—

MEMORIAL OF GREAT ECONOMIC VALUE TO THE DISABLED

Viewed purely from the selfish standpoint—the dollars and cents end of it—the proposed Memorial hall has an economic value to the community which should not be overlooked while we are talking about the debt of gratitude we owe the boys and discussing a fitting memorial to commemorate their deeds of valor.

The man or woman who has never known the need of food or has wanted a bath more than anything else on earth, does not realize the wonderful civilizing effects produced by a square meal and a good bath, especially when they are accompanied by a kind word from a sympathetic Buddy.

Many of the four and a half million young men who were torn from peaceful civil pursuits and thrown into war a few years ago are back in civil life now. Some of them mental wrecks, some physical wrecks, many of them financial wrecks—out of work—out of money—out of luck—wondering whether there is any milk of human kindness left in this grim old world of ours.

Every day our Patriotic Societies are being called upon by men of this type, for aid, and many a man who has almost reached the point where he is ready to take a gun and go out to collect the living he believes the world owes him, is salvaged by a bath and a square meal.

There is no soil so ready for the seeds of radicalism as the mind of the shell shocked, war racked man who marched away a hero and now finds himself an outcast. No one can foretell the great good which will come from an institution which will help to rehabilitate men of this class, as Glendale's proposed Memorial hall will.

Wins Key For Work On University Paper

Bill Teetzel, 718 Kenwood street, manager of the Southern California Daily Trojan at the University of Southern California, was presented with a gold key yesterday noon when the university officials entertained members of the staff with a luncheon and gave a gold key to all who had worked loyally for two years.

When presented with his key, Teetzel was praised for his good work this year as business manager. Due to Teetzel's efforts, the university paper has grown from a tri-weekly to a daily. Teetzel was recently reappointed business manager for next year.

Ditch Grave's Victim Tells Of Experiences

did show speedy symptoms of kidney trouble. This was found due to the large quantities of dirt he had swallowed while drinking the water around his head, and the dirt that had worked into his lungs. The dirt entered his blood and is being slowly eliminated.

From a medical viewpoint, his case is a curious one, Dr. Paine stated. When the body of Max Moore was dug out, examination proved he had died from suffocation within a few moments of his burial. Both men were held just as if cement had been poured around them, and were in a standing position. This is explained by the fact that the dirt did not drop on top of them but flowed across the ditch, pinning them to the wall.

Puzzles Doctors

It is not believed Pombo got any air from the sewer pipe near which he was standing, as the end of the pipe was filled. Pombo's head was six feet under earth, so percolation of air from above is doubtful. The question raised by medical men acquainted with the case is double-barreled; how did Pombo get air, and how could he inspire with such a tremendous weight crushing his chest? The post-mortem showed Moore had suffocated.

The patient gives his name as Manuel G. R. Pombo. His address is the San Gabriel hotel in San Gabriel. He is 23 and unmarried. He has lived in San Gabriel five years.

This was not the first cave-in Pombo has encountered, but only one of many. However, none of the others had buried him deeper than the knees.

Among the various callers at the hospital has been the contractor in charge of the sewer job, J. C. Hicks. Others included two uncles of West Third street, San Pedro, Manuel Gonzalez and Constantine Correia.

Moore, who was killed in the accident that trapped Pombo, lived in Alhambra. Others injured were John Caskey, H. R. Palmer and Jim Diaz.

A.O.U.W. Orchestra To Play On Tuesday Night

Members and friends of the local organization of Ancient Order of United Workmen, are to hear the lodge orchestra for the first time Tuesday night, June 23, when a benefit dance will be held at the Hahn hall, North Brand boulevard. Proceeds will go to buy music and uniforms for the orchestra. Members of the orchestra are Mrs. Mary R. name has been prominently mentioned and it is understood that he is willing to accept the place.

Draft of By-Laws

Elliott B. Barrett, attorney for the league, will present a tentative draft of by-laws and constitution. He will also have articles of incorporation, drawn up at the order of Dr. T. C. Young, president.

A basic plan for uniform mapping of airways, flying and emergency landing fields and aero repair and service stations, will be outlined by J. T. Edwards, noted map maker. Mr. Edwards has volunteered his services to the Aero league in its effort to standardize air maps and charts.

Army Man Host

Lieut. C. P. Kane, commander of Ross field, Arcadia, will be host to officers and executive committeemen of the league. Many of the delegates from outside cities will fly to Arcadia. Arrangements for their entertainment at the army field have been completed by Lieutenant Kane, who represents the United States army on the board of the new commercial air organization.

It is expected that Lieutenant Kane will outline to officers of the league the work now under way in the Ninth corps area of accumulating data on all civilian aviation organizations and flying fields in the west. In completing this directory of aviation, the army officials will seek the assistance of the Aero league. Col. Frank Lahm, chief of air activities and Lieutenant Kane are in charge of the work.

Pick Glendale People For University Club

Miss Genevieve Mulligan and Al Chase of Glendale, prominent students in the school of speech at the University of Southern California, were initiated into Lance and Lute chapter of the National Collegiate Players yesterday. Preceding the initiation ceremonies a program consisting of several skits was presented in Athena hall by the pledges. Miss Mulligan has been very active in dramatics this year and Chase has had charge of the stage management of plays this year.

hood of the new bridge recently completed at the north end of Canada boulevard and the Oakmont Country club golf course.

One of the proposed projects outlined by H. N. Fowler, president of the Verdugo City Association of Commerce is the widening of Honolulu avenue from Ocean View avenue in Montrose, to Michigan avenue in Tujunga. It is planned to follow the foothills throughout the entire length of La Crescenta valley and at the west and provide two openings through Phil Begue's vineyard. One of the openings will connect with Sunset boulevard and the other will pass back of the Garden of the Moon into an intersection with Michigan avenue.

Flood control and road projects the Verdugo City Association of Commerce has been working on will provide nine north and south concrete boulevards extending from the base of Verdugo Hills to the base of the High Sierras, with fan-shaped channels extending east and west along the base of the Sierras to convey flood waters into the nine roads. Maps have been prepared by the Los Angeles county Board of Supervisors and the county road and flood control departments.

Rally Day Tomorrow At Adventist Church

The annual Sabbath school rally day of Seventh-day Adventist church will be held tomorrow morning and afternoon with special programs at the church, Isabel and California streets. Mrs. A. C. Hanson, Sabbath school superintendent, is in charge of the program. Elder L. L. Taylor, of Glendale will read an address entitled "What Is Most Needed In Our Sabbath School," written by O. O. Bernstein, president of Southern California conference, at the 11 o'clock service. Special exercises will be given by pupils of the school. A paper written by Mrs. Cleora Webster, conference secretary of Sabbath schools in Southern California, will be read at the 3 o'clock session by Mrs. LeRoy Schultz, local secretary.

Delta Sigmas Meet At Oakmont Country Club

Members of the Delta Zeta chapter of Delta Sigma fraternity entertained their fathers at the first annual banquet last night at Oakmont Country club. Forty were present from Glendale, Santa Ana, Hollywood and Los Angeles. Roy McClusky of Glendale acted as toastmaster. All of the fathers present were called upon for short talks. Fraternity songs were sung by members.

DRAMA FINALS ARE WON BY GLENDALE

'Finders Keepers' Wins First Prize In Eisteddfod Contest Last Night

Members of the drama department of the Glendale Tuesday Afternoon club, under the direction of Mrs. R. E. Chase, won first place in the drama finals in the California Eisteddfod last night. Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Chase and Mrs. Malvern C. Barker composed the Tuesday club group that triumphed over players from the Friday Morning club of Los Angeles and the Oxnard Monday club. On their presentation of "Finders Keepers," the Glendale players were awarded a winning score of 80 per cent. The Los Angeles Friday Morning club and Oxnard players were tied for second place in the competitions with scores of 76 per cent.

Los Angeles High school students, presenting a scene from "Romeo and Juliet," won from Burbank High school players in the school Shakespearean group. Burbank, under Mrs. Lena Cooper Webb, presented a scene from "As You Like It." Those appearing in the cast were Frances Riley, Donald Newcomer, Jane Curry and Robert Wellington.

The competitions last night were held at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse. Miss Dorothy LaVoy, Maurice Browne and Harry Hillard were judges of the dramatic events. They were assisted by H. M. Butts of Glendale. The program was in charge of Mrs. Margaret Barbrick Gillette with Mrs. A. H. Montgomery and Mrs. H. C. Vandewater on the reception committee. Mrs. J. T. Edwards was in charge of properties.

Program Tonight

Elementary school boys' and girls' glee clubs and elementary school orchestras will furnish the program at the Glendale Intermediate school auditorium tonight. In addition, dance numbers will be given.

The Wilson Intermediate school boys' glee club, under the direction of Mrs. E. Kirk Kent, will compete against the Santa Paula club, representing Ventura county district. Wilson Intermediate boys' glee club singers will be without competition, but it will be necessary for them to make a grade of 80 per cent in order to win the state championship banner. Burbank elementary school orchestra will also be without competition, but will have to make a similarly high grade in order to take the banner in its division. Hubert Snow White, director of music in the Burbank schools, will direct the orchestra.

Burbank High school girls will repeat their Sailor's Hornpipe dance that won much applause during the Glendale district contests several weeks ago. In addition there will be Highland Fling dancing on the program tonight. Nellie Aleshire of Glendale will be one of the competing dancers. Eddie Alurich, 6-year-old winner of the primary violin finals, will present exhibition numbers.

Finish Tomorrow

The last event of the Eisteddfod finals will be held tomorrow night in the new Hollywood High school auditorium, when choir and choral club competitions will take place.

The Burbank Choral club, winners of Glendale district honors will compete with clubs from four other districts. Glendale Central Christian church choir, under the direction of H. S. Larkin, will represent Glendale in competition of choirs of twenty-five members. Four other choirs will compete in this division. The First Congregational choir under Mrs. W. Q. Widdows will contest state honors in larger choir groups with the choir from the Welsh Presbyterian church of Los Angeles.

Greeters To Inspect New Hotel Glendale

Several hundred delegates to the Greeters' convention to be held at San Diego, who will pass through Glendale tomorrow morning, will view the new Hotel Glendale, nearing completion at the corner of Broadway and Glendale boulevard. The Greeters, a hotel men's organization, will be guests of Charles W. Ingledue, president of the Glendale Hotel Co., and O. S. Watts, manager of the hotel, between the hours of 11 and 12 o'clock. They will be shown through the new 6-story structure.

A Chamber of Commerce committee will welcome the Greeters when they arrive here and will accompany them on their inspection of the hotel. The Glendalians, including George B. Karr, Spencer Robinson, Alex Mitchell, Preston L. Hatch and Lyman P. Clark will be garbed in Spanish costume for the occasion. The new hotel will be formally opened with a mammoth Spanish costume ball to be given about July 1.

LEGION NOTES

Great preparations are being made for the dance which is to be given for the building fund benefit of the Verdugo Hills post, American Legion, Saturday, June 20, at Sparr Heights Community building. Several fine entertainment numbers have been secured. Members of the Auxiliary will serve refreshments. Novelty numbers are being worked up, and the affair promises to close the spring season with a blaze of glory.

SCHOOL BONDS INDORSED IN NORTHWEST

Members Of 2 Improvement Associations Meet At Grand View School

Members of the Foothill Improvement association and the Greater Northwest Improvement association endorsed the school bonds at a joint meeting held at the Grand View schoolhouse last night. J. H. Randall presided. The endorsement came after several speakers had outlined the purpose of the bond issue and urged the members of the two organizations to vote next Tuesday.

Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools, told the need of additional schools in Glendale, stating that 800 children are enrolled in temporary wooden bungalows, while 1100 children are attending half-day sessions. He explained the increase in taxes that would result if the bonds carried, and urged the voters of Glendale to give the bonds a large majority.

Alexander Mitchell, a member of the committee of fifteen, spoke on the investigation made by the committee to ascertain school conditions in the city. Mrs. E. H. Holt, president of the Grand View Parent-teacher association, stressed the need of voting for the bond issue. James W. Evenington, Jr., spoke on the Memorial hall bond issue, stating Glendale was one of the few cities which had not provided some form of memorial to the veterans of the World War.

Residential Zoning

Mr. Randall reported that the City Planning commission had recommended the zoning of all territory east of Glenwood road to the mountains, and from Grand View to Burbank city limits as strictly residential property, and planned to restrict construction to one house on each lot. The territory west of Glenwood road, he said, would also be residential property, but apartment houses, courts and duplexes would be permissible, with business structures on Glenoaks boulevard.

Entertainment was furnished by the Canfield-Dixon Duo, through the courtesy of Lee Brann of the Glendale Music Co. Several vocal selections were given by R. A. Canfield and W. B. Dixon. Mr. Canfield played the banjo and Mr. Dixon played the piano.

New Bargains Offered In Special Paint Sale

To close out the remaining remnants of his $12,000 fire sale stock, William Hunter of the Glendale Paint & Paper Co., 119 South Brand boulevard, announced a "grand finale sale" to start tomorrow morning and last throughout the day. Prices on sale articles, already greatly reduced, will be cut still further in order to clear them out before tomorrow night.

Mr. Hunter, in announcing the extra special prices for the final hours of the sale, assured buyers that no paints or other merchandise offered for sale is in any way damaged. Only labels and other paper or cardboard coverings are scorched or burned as a result of the fire that partially destroyed his place of business several weeks ago.

Following the close of the sale tomorrow night, the Glendale Paint & Paper Co. will remodel its building and put in entirely new stock, enlarging in many departments and becoming one of the biggest and best paint and wallpaper concerns in Southern California.

ELKS TO HOLD FLAG DAY PROGRAM

Plan Impressive Ceremonies Sunday At Clubhouse; Invite Veterans

Impressive Flag Day ceremonies to which the public is invited, will be held Sunday afternoon by Glendale lodge No. 1289, B. P. O. E., at the Elks' clubhouse on East Colorado street. The ceremonies will commence at 2:30 o'clock with numbers by Paul Finstein's stringed quartet.

Judge Frank C. Collier of the Los Angeles Superior court bench, will deliver the main address at the ceremonials. Exalted Ruler Gerald A. Dockeray and officers of the lodge will conduct patriotic exercises as one of the main features of the program.

In announcing the Flag Day ceremonies, Exalted Ruler Dockeray urged that patriotic organizations and service clubs of the city be well represented.

Patriotic Service

"This is one of the few ceremonials of the order of Elks that are open to the public. It is an intensely patriotic service and should be attended by every good American as well as those who plan to seek citizenship. The American Legion, Grand Army, Veterans of Foreign Wars and all other patriotic bodies are cordially invited. Service clubs and civic organizations are urged to attend. All should participate in this tribute to the flag," the exalted ruler declared.

The lodge rooms will be decorated in the national colors and floral emblems for the occasion. Special reception committees will greet those who are not Elks and will escort them to seats in the big auditorium where it is expected more than 600 will witness the ceremonies. Following is the program for Flag Day exercises, announced by Secretary Walter W. Jones:

Assembly—Paul Finstein's String quartet.
March — Paul Finstein's String quartet.
Selection—"Star Spangled Banner" (Keyes), sung by entire audience.
Trio—"Let Us Have Peace" (Ball), Eleanor Woodford, soprano, Melba French Barr, soprano, Alice Lohr, contralto.
Introductory exercises — Exalted ruler and officers.
Prayer—Chaplain Dr. P. J. Holmes.
Soprano solo—"The Flag Without a Stain" (Thile), Melba French Barr.
History of the Flag—John H. Fanset.
Soprano solo—"The Call to the Colors" (Rice), Eleanor Woodford.
Altar service—Esquire and officers.
Song—"Auld Lang Syne," orchestra and assembly.
Trio—"The Story of Old Glory" (Ball), Eleanor Woodford, soprano, Melba French Barr, soprano, Alice Lohr, contralto.
Patriotic address—Judge Frank C. Collier.
Trio—"The Home They Hold So Dear" (Hilliam).
Song—"America," orchestra and assembly.
Exit March—Paul Finstein's String quartet.

The HOUSE Of The ARROW

A SERIAL STORY WRITTEN BY A. E. W. MASON

Protected By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"I had better follow her," he said, reaching for his hat.

Ann smiled and shook her head wisely.

"I shouldn't. I know Betty. She wants to be alone."

"Do you think so?"

"I am sure."

Jim twiddled his hat in his hands, not half as sure upon the point as she was. Ann watched him with a rather ruefue smile for a little while. Then she shrugged her shoulders in a sudden exasperation.

"There is something you ought to do," she said. "You ought to let Monsieur Bex, Betty's notary here, know that the seals are to be broken this afternoon. He ought to be here. He was here when they were affixed. Besides, he has all the keys of Mrs. Harlowe's drawers and cupboards."

"That's true," Jim exclaimed. "I'll go at once."

Ann gave him Monsieur Bex's address in the Place Etienne Dolet, and from the window of the library watched him go upon his errand. She stood at the window for a long while after he had disappeared.

CHAPTER ELEVEN
A NEW SUSPECT

Monsieur Bex, the notary, came out into the hall of his house when Frobisher send his card in to him. He was a small, brisk man with a neat pointed beard, his hair cut en brosse and the corner of his napkin tucked into his neck between the flaps of his collar.

Jim explained that the seals were to be removed from the rooms of the Maison Grenelle, but said nothing at all of the new developments which had begun with the discovery of the book of the arrows.

"I have had communications with Messrs. Frobisher & Haslitt," the little man exclaimed. "Everything has been as correct as it could possibly be. I am happy to meet a partner of so distinguished a firm. Yes. I will certainly present myself at 3 with my keys and see the end of this miserable scandal. It has been a disgrace. That young lady so delicious and so correct! And that animal of a Waberski! But we can deal with him. We have laws in France."

He gave Jim the impression that there were in his opinion no laws anywhere else, and he bowed his visitor into the street.

Jim returned by the Rue des Godrans and the main thoroughfare of the town, the street of Liberty. As he crossed the semicircle of the Place d'Armes in front of the Hotel de Ville, he almost ran into Hanaud smoking a cigar.

"You have lunched already?" he cried.

"An affair of a quarter of an hour," said Hanaud with a wave of the hand. "And you?"

"Not until 2. Miss Harlowe wanted a walk."

Hanaud smiled.

"How I understand that! The first walk after an ordeal! The first walk of a convalescent after an operation! The first walk of a defendant found innocent of a grave charge! It must be worth taking, that walk. But console yourself, my friend, for the postponement of your luncheon. You have met me!" and he struck something of an attitude.

Now Jim had the gravest objection to anything theatrical, especially when displayed in public places, and he answered stiffly, "That is a pleasure, to be sure."

Hanaud grinned. To make Jim look "proper" was becoming to him an unfailing entertainment.

"Now I reward you," he said, though for what Jim could not imagine. "You shall come with me. At this hour, on the top of old Philippe le Bon's Terrace Tower, we shall have the world to ourselves."

He led the way into the great courtyard of the Hotel de Ville. Behind the long wing which faced them, a square, solid tower rose a hundred and fifty feet high above the ground. With Frobisher at his heels, Hanaud climbed the three hundred and sixteen steps and emerged upon the roof into the blue and gold of a cloudless May in France. They looked eastwards, and the beauty of the scene took Frobisher's breath away. Just in front, the slender apse of Notre Dame, fine as a lady's ornament, set him wondering how in the world through all these centuries it had endured; and beyond, rich and green and wonderful, stretched the level plain with its shining streams and nestling villages.

Hanaud sat down upon a stone bench and stretched out his arm across the parapet. "Look!" he cried eagerly, proudly. "There is what I brought you here to see. Look!"

Jim looked and saw, and his face lit up. Far away on the horizon's edge, unearthly in its beauty, hung the great mass of Mont Blanc; white as silver, soft as velvet, and here and there sparkling with gold as though the flame of a fire leaped and sank.

"Oho!" said Hanaud as he watched Jim's face. "So we have that in common. You perhaps have stood on the top of that mountain?"

"Five times," Jim answered, with a smile made up of many memories. "I hope to do so again."

"You are fortunate," said Hanaud a little enviously. "For me I see him only in the distance. But even so—if I am troubled—it is like sitting silent in the company of a friend."

Jim Frobisher's mind strayed back over memories of snow slope and rock ridge. It was a true phase which Hanaud had used. It expressed one of the many elusive, almost incommunicable emotions which mountains did mean to the people who had "that"—the passion for mountains—in common. Jim glanced curiously at Hanaud.

"You are troubled about this case, then?" he said sympathetically. The distant and exquisite vision of that soaring arc of silver and velvet set in the blue air had brought the two men into at all events a momentary brotherhood.

"Very," Hanaud returned slowly, without turning his eyes from the horizon, "and for more reasons than one. What do you yourself think of it?"

"I think, Monsieur Hanaud," Jim said dryly, "that you do not like any one to ask any questions except yourself."

Hanaud laughed with an appreciation of the thrust.

"Yes, you wished to ask a question of the beautiful Mademoiselle Upcott. Tell me if I have guessed aright the question you meant to ask! It was whether the face she touched in the darkness was the smooth face of a woman or the face of a man."

"Yes. That was it."

It was now for Hanaud to glance curiously and quickly at Jim. There could be no doubt of the thought which was passing through his mind: "I must begin to give you a little special attention, my friend." But he was careful not to put his thoughts into words.

"I did not want that question asked," he said.

"Why?"

"Because it was unnecessary, and unnecessary questions are confusing things which had best be avoided altogether."

Jim did not believe one word of that explanation. He had too clear a recollection of the swift movement and the look with which Hanaud had checked him. Both had been unmistakably signs of alarm. Hanaud would not have been alarmed at the prospect of a question being asked, merely because the question was superfluous. There was another and, Jim was sure, a very compelling reason in Hanaud's mind. Only he could not discover it.

Besides, was the question superfluous?

"Surely," Hanaud replied. "Suppose that that young lady's hand had touched in the darkness the face of a man with its stubble, its tough skin, and the short hair of his head around it, bending down so low over hers, would not that have been the most vivid, terrifying thing to her in all the terrifying incident? Stretching out her hands carelessly above her head, she touches suddenly, unexpectedly, the face of a man? She could not have told her story at all without telling that. It would have been the unforgettable detail, the very heart of her terror. She touched the face of a man!"

Jim recognized that the reasoning was sound, but he was no nearer to the solution of his problem—why Hanaud so wholeheartedly objected to the question being asked. And then Hanaud made a quiet remark which drove it for a long time altogether out of Jim's speculations.

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram.

Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly.

Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.

UNCLE WIGGILY

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE WATER LILY

Deep down in the black and slimy mud of the pond, where Bully and Bawly No Tail, the frog boys, played tag, grew a beautiful water lily with petals as white as snow, with a center of golden yellow and with a sweet, spicy perfume like a gentle wind blowing over a grove of orange trees.

Now perhaps you think it strange for a beautiful while lily to grow in black, slimy mud, but I mean to say that only the roots of the flower were in the mud. From the roots grew up a long green stem, like a rubber pipe, and on the upper end of this stem there spread out, flat on the surface of the pond, the big, green lily pads, or leaves. And on part of this stem, between the green leaves, grew the beautiful white lily.

But soon after the bud of the lily formed and it began to blossom out into a flower, a mass of grass and sticks were blown by the wind across the pond, like a raft, and came to rest on top of the lily bulb. Feeling this raft of old sticks on her head, the lily bud cried:

"Oh, how can I ever blossom out into a big flower with this weight on me? I shall be held down and stunted. Oh, if I could only get rid of the sticks and grass!" But, try as the lily did, she could not move the stuff and she was kept from blossoming forth.

One day Uncle Wiggily hopped past the frog pond. The bunny gentleman saw the raft of sticks on the lily blossom and, getting into a canoe he made from some of the broad, green leaves, the rabbit paddled with a stick out to the blossom. With his stick paddle he cleared an open place in the water around the flower.

"Oh, now the sun will shine on me, and I can spread out my white petals," sang the water lily. "Thank you, Uncle Wiggily. It was a great favor you did me, and I hope I may do you a favor some day."

"Pray do not mention it," spoke the bunny gentleman, politely, as he bowed his pink, twinkling nose. Then he rowed his lily leaf boat to shore.

Well, the water lily continued to grow. Larger and larger it spread out, until it was the largest flower that had ever grown in that pond. Bully and Bawly No Tail, the frog boys, playing water polo near the blossom one day, croaked out:

"How did you grow so big?"

"Because Uncle Wiggily was kind to me," answered the flower. "He moved the raft of sticks off me so the sun could shine on me. But I have not seen the rabbit gentleman in many weeks. Please tell him to come out and look at me, for he helped me to grow."

So Bully and Bawly carried the flower's message to Mr. Longears, and he gave another twinkle to his pink nose and said:

"Yes, I will once more get into the lily leaf boat and row out to see my friend, the blossom." But as Uncle Wiggily rowed across the pond the Skillery Scallery Alligator, who had been down to Florida for the winter, happened to come back. Seeing the bunny starting across the pond, the 'Gator opened his mouth in a wide smile and whispered:

"I'll swim under water until I get beneath his lily leaf boat. Then I will bob up, turn him over so he falls into the water and in that way I'll nibble his ears."

Uncle Wiggily reached the beautiful lily flower, now almost as large as a wash tub, lying on the surface of the pond. He was telling the blossom how glad he was she had grown so large when the lily said:

"Quick, Uncle Wiggily! Jump out of your boat and right into the center of my petals. The Alligator is under the water trying to tip over your boat and get you!"

Quickly the bunny jumped, and when he was in the middle of the lily the flower closed her white petals and her outer green leaves over him, shutting the rabbit up inside her perfumed bud, until not even the tip of his tail could be seen. Up bobbed the 'Gator. He looked all around, but he could not see Uncle Wiggily, who was safely hidden in the closed lily bud.

"Ho Hum," bellowed the 'Gator. "Uncle Wiggily was here, for I saw his boat. But I guess he fooled me and jumped to shore. I can't get him this time." Then the 'Gator swam back to his den, and the lily opened its petals so the bunny could come out and row safely to shore, which he did, after thanking the blossom. So it all happened for the best, you see, and if the bath room rug doesn't slide down into the parlor and splash water on the piano I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the girl bird.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, June 12.—The City Council met last Tuesday night, during which session six new ordinances were adopted, making eleven duly adopted to date. One fixes a $2 per year license on dogs, and another applies to deposits to be made before pipes are laid in streets, or streets torn up for other purposes. The eighth is a traffic ordinance, the ninth provides for confinement of persons under arrest. The next for enforcement of prohibition law and the last governs auditing and paying of bills.

H. W. Zachau was appointed by the council to serve on advisory board for the Tujunga-Sunland fire protection district, with representatives of the Sunland and Tujunga Chambers of Commerce.

A notice was filed with the City Council by a number of residents of the section lying west of Tujunga, of intention of circulating petitions for annexing a tract of land extending west of Tujunga to the Los Angeles City lines, and from the Verdugo hills to the Sierra Madre mountains. This is exclusive of the Verdugo hills tract previously brought under consideration for annexation. This tract includes approximately 600 voters. It includes the Rainbow valley section, and extends into the Big Tujunga canyon, covering the proposed flood control dam and a portion of the contemplated reservoir. The petition was signed by W. E. Morgan, H. S. Murray, George B. Shaffer, L. A. Wakefield, S. M. Dunbar, C. C. Nicholson, John Abernathy and J. A. Jenkins. The board unanimously adopted a resolution favoring the plan.

The regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held Tuesday night. Judge H. H. Breidt and Leon Carr were appointed to represent the Chamber of Commerce on the Tujunga-Sunland fire protection district, with representatives from other valley organizations.

The committee on Fourth of July celebration met Tuesday night, following the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce. The chairman of the subcommittees reported on the plans under way, which were not sufficiently definite for publication. The program committee will hold a meeting Saturday evening at Sunland school auditorium, and a meeting of the committee of the whole will be held next Monday evening at Tujunga school auditorium, at which time the work will probably be sufficiently advanced to make public announcements.

Mrs. Mark White, president of the Tujunga Women's club, was hostess at luncheon to the members of the executive board of the club at her home on Monte Vista boulevard, Monday, June 8. A delightful luncheon was served, after which a business meeting of the board was held, which was the last regular meeting of the retiring board. Those present, in addition to the hostess, were: Mrs. Annie Kindler, vice-president; Mrs. Minnie Pratt, secretary; Mrs. George Buck, treasurer; Mrs. Harriet Mills, Mrs. Lillian Wheeler and Mrs. George Slusher, trustees; Miss Elizabeth W. Benedict, auditor.

Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Virginia Osgood of Hollywood gave an interesting lecture on the "Psychology of Color" to the members of the Women's club. The Misses Lewis favored the audience with music.

The next regular meeting of the club will be the final meeting of the club year, and will be in the form of an indoor picnic. A picnic lunch provided by the members of the club will be served at noon, after will be the installations of the officers recently elected for the ensuing year. Mrs. L. May Dean, club mother, will act as installing officer.

A district rally of the J. O. C.'s has been set for June 21 at the Tujunga Community church. The program is being arranged by the National J. O. C. council. Caroline Lucy Judd, national president, and Helen Byrnes, first vice-president, will be on the program, with other inspiring speakers.

KLAN BILL KILLED

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 12.—In a battle marked with the bitterest factional outbreaks of the entire session, the House of Representatives today killed the so-called Ku Klux Klan bill, introduced by Representative William E. King, negro, of Chicago. The vote was 63 to 58, with four voting "present."

PLENTY THRILLS IN TWILIGHT GO

Nicholson Fans Ten Radio Players, Hits Home Run, Triple And Double

By A. S. HALL
The Evening News Staff.

So much worthy of note happened at the Twilight league game yesterday between the Radios and the Public Service, that the old dope book is going to be pretty well crowded. Incidentally, a question of rules was raised that probably will have to be settled at a league meeting.

Both sides are claiming victory. The Public Service crew claims a real victory, one replete with thrills, while the Radios are claiming a moral victory in that the contest should appear in the dope book as "no game."

The controversy revolves around the interpretation of the the four-inning rule adopted at the first meeting of the league. The rule states four full innings must be played to constitute a game. Another rule says time shall be called at 7 o'clock.

At the end of the third inning the score was tied, 4 all. The Radio team was the visiting team, and the Public Service team was the home team. The Radios scored two runs in the first half of the fourth. The Public Service crew came back and put over three runs in the last half of the fourth. Shortly after the third run was scored, time was called, with one man out. The Public Service claim the game due to the fact that the winning run crossed the plate before the time limit, and since they were the home team, the time limit did not apply. The Radios are standing up for the time limit.

Nicholson, pitcher for the Public Service, provided a lot of thrills. He fanned ten men in four innings, hit a homer in the second for the first run his team got; doubled in the third, sending in one run, and later scored, and in the fourth, he slammed out a triple that sent the winning run across the plate. Aside from that, he didn't have much to do.

E. Dotson, catcher, would have had all the putouts, only Trefrey grabbed McKowan's fly in the fourth, and the catcher dropped the third strike on Claycomb in the same inning, but threw him out at first. However, E. Dotson gets ten putouts, for he went back after Wiese's foul in the fourth and gathered it in. The only Public Service player to get an assist was the catcher.

Play by Innings

McKowan started the first inning by fanning. Mayall doubled to center. Wolfe doubled to left, scoring Mayall. Wiese singled, scoring Wolfe, and took second on the throw to catch Wolfe at the plate. Nicholson threw wide to nab Weise at second, and the runner went to third, where he scored on a passed ball. Claycomb walked, stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Gist was safe on Heryford's error. He stole second. Walstead and Egbert fanned to end the inning. Three runs, three hits.

L. Dotson, first man up for the Public Service, fanned, and was thrown out at first. E. Carmargo flied out to Walstead. Trefrey safe on DeServa's error. E. Dotson safe on Egbert's error. Heryford fanned. No runs, no hits.

Second Inning

Radios—DeServa fanned. McKowan fanned. Mayall singled to right. Wolfe fanned. No runs, one hit.

Public Service—Nicholson hit a homer to left which bounded over the fence. M. Camargo safe on Claycomb's error. He stole second. Arbagast out, Claycomb to Gist. Degiacomo went to first on DeServa's balk. L. Dotson fanned. E. Camargo fanned. One run, one hit.

Third Inning

Radios—Wiese fanned. Claycomb safe when Heryford dropped an easy fly, then threw low to first. Claycomb going to second on the overthrow. Gist singled to left, sending Claycomb to third. Gress, batting for Walstead, fanned. Egbert safe on L. Dotson's error, Claycomb scoring on the play. DeServa fanned. One run, one hit.

Public Service—Trefrey out, DeServa to Gist. E. Dotson doubled to right, and scored on Heryford's double to left. Nicholson doubled to left, scoring Heryford. M. Camargo singled, scoring Nicholson. Arbagast out, DeServa to Gist. Degiacomo walked. L. Dotson popped out to Wolfe. Three runs, four hits.

Fourth Inning

Radios—Trefrey gathered in McKowan's fly. Mayall's drive hit the pitcher and went for a hit. Wolfe tripled to center, scoring Mayall, and came home when Nicholson overthrew third trying to catch him. Wiese fouled out to E. Dotson. Claycomb fanned. Two runs, two hits.

Public Service—E. Camargo hit by pitcher. Trefrey to first on DeServa's balk. Base runners advanced one base on passed ball. E. Camargo scored on passed ball. Trefrey scored on passed ball. E. Dotson flied to Mayall. Heryford walked, and stole second. Wolfe relieved DeServa as pitcher. Nicholson tripled to center, scoring Heryford. One out when winning run made. Three runs, one hit. XLV—FASTING ANIMALS

Trance-fasters, like Augusta Kerner of Ingolstade, survived in a semi-conscious condition for nearly a quarter of a year. We are all more or less familiar with the undoubtedly true stories of miners entombed in collieries who have been found alive after weeks of enforced abstinence from any more nutritious food than scraps of leather soaked in pit-water and masticated with desperate perserverance. Sailors, deprived of food and drink, have endured exposure to the glare of the tropical sun for weeks.

But the marvels of long-continued abstinence without loss of strength reach their maximum in the winter-sleep of several species of warm-blooded animals. Reptiles, with their small expenditure of vital energy, can easily survive dietetic deprivations, but bears and badgers, with an organization essentially analogous to that of the human species, and with a circulation of the blood active enough to maintain the temperature storms, dispense with food for periods varying from three to five months, and at the termination of their ordeal emerge from their dens in the full possession of their physical and mental energies.

The black bear of Northern Russia rolls itself up in scrap heaps of leaves and moss, about the end of November, trusting to good luck to be left alone to the enjoyment of peaceful slumber till the middle of March, but if disturbed before the end of February is wide awake in a minute and attacks the intruders with the fury of a cyclone.

Badgers leave their burrows a little sooner, being often awakened by a spell of warm weather, a month before the vernal equinox, and after an absolute fast of ten weeks will trot for miles in search of roots and acorns that have perhaps to be scraped out of the half frozen ground.

Tomorrow—Questions and Answers

HEAVYWEIGHTS TO BATTLE IN FALL

De Forest Making Plans For Wills-Tunney Bout In September, Report

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Harry Wills and Gene Tunney, only surviving contenders for the world's heavyweight championship, are to meet in a fifteen-round bout in the Polo grounds, in September, providing nothing unforeseen occurs in the meantime to affect their status. Wills, however, must either knock out or decisively outpoint Charley Weinert if and when the Italian hospital fund enterprise gets around to the matter of conducting its show, in order to qualify for the Tunney meeting.

Jimmy De Forest, Polo ground promoter, virtually admitted today that all of his plans for the immediate future revolved around the contest in question. He, like Rickard and the rest of them, would like to feature Jack Dempsey in a title bout before the end of the outdoor season, but has come to the belief that it cannot be done.

A boiled cabbage may not smell as sweet as a rose, but it tastes better. Therefore, De Forest is prepared to play along with Tunney and Wills.

Expects Big Gate

He expects the gate to run well over three-quarters of a million and must pay the boxers accordingly. From an inside source, it was said that the polo ground management is ready to set aside $300,000 for Tunney and Wills to split as they may see fit.

The enterprise will be Charley Stoneham's final gesture toward making boxing support him in the style to which he is accustomed. Charles has done exceedingly well in baseball and Wall Street, but somehow he seems to be holding the bag in boxing and it is always empty. He is reported to have dropped a cool $50,000 in playing angel to the Tunney-Gibbons bout.

Stoneham got off on the wrong foot in the fistic racket right at the outset. He permitted Tom O'Rourke to guarantee Johnny Kilbane $100,000 and Eugene Criqui $25,000 for the first big show at the Polo grounds and there was hardly $150,000 in the house when the men stepped into the ring.

HOME RUN FAILS

George H. Ruth, the well-known right fielder, wafted his first homer of the 1925 season off the premises, but it was the only run scored against Miller and the Yanks finished second to the Indians, 4 to 1.

DEFEAT RED SOX

Ken Williams' double with two on in the eighth, followed by his homer in the seventh, staked the Browns to a 9 to 7 verdict over the Red Sox. Ken also added to the gaiety of the occasion by making a shoe string catch.

NEW YORK, June 12.—As the Navy crew makes ready to leave for Poughkeepsie no follower of rowing who is up on the technique of the sport has any idea other than that the midshipmen combination is one that must be relied upon to give the University of Washington eight a thrilling contest.

In the past six years, since the scheme of sports for all was fully developed at Annapolis, one has come to expect excellent crews, teams and individual athletes representing the naval academy.

Victory is often, of course, balanced by defeat, but the important thing is that every team, win or lose, is a worthy outfit from the standpoint of technique. The academy authorities believe in victory and bend every legitimate means to the end that victory may be obtained. Here is a very nice point and Commander McCandless, the athletic officer at the naval academy explained it to the writer with great care lest he be misunderstood.

"We want our men to be good losers," he said, "but you must remember that we are developing at this institution young men who are being trained to fight for their country—and to fight to win. There must be no thought of losing when you set out to face, say, a rival fleet. It is your business to win and it is this spirit which we seek to implant in the midshipmen.

"If this were confined merely to varsity teams it might not be very important, or even interesting. But the fact is that this is cultivated to the highest degree within the academy walls. The zest, enthusiasm and skill with which contests of all sorts are carried on among teams and individual performers representing the various companies not only results in the development of athletes qualified to command in the enlisted force and to lead in athletes therein—a very valuable, almost an essential element in the relations of officers and men these days—but leads very often to the discovery of varsity material."

Just now Commander McCandless is fostering the idea of intramural cutter races among the midshipmen. Four thirty-one foot racing cutters have already been secured and eight more are wanted from battleships and cruisers that have been scrapped. As a result of the cutter racing which has already been inaugurated the navy athletic authorities have no great fears that they will ever lack rowing material for the regular shells.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The fight in the American league between Chicago and Washington, over Washington's failure to play off on Tuesday, an open date, a postponed game with Chicago probably will be won by the Senators if the case goes to the league's board of directors, as President Ban Johnson has threatened.

The board is loath to forfeit games that have not been played, unless some mistake occurred that violated a rule, or unless one team walked off the field. In the present case there would seem to be room for argument.

The postponement took place during the first series between Chicago and Washington in the east. Under the old rule which was in force in the National league, and possibly in the American, no double headers could be scheduled in the first period. Griffith apparently figured it was optional with him whether he would play a single game in the first period.

In the National league, however, it was the custom to play single games in open dates of the first period to avoid double headers. But there doesn't seem to be any well settled rule on the point at issue, and, as said, Griffith is likely to win out if the Chicago protest against Griffith's refusal to play goes to the board of directors.

GOOZEMAN MEETS TAYLOR TUESDAY

Pride Of San Diego Will Go Against Terre Haute Lad At Vernon

Ernie Goozeman, the pride of San Diego, who meets Bud Taylor, conqueror of Jimmy McLarnin, at Vernon Tuesday night, is known as the champion crowd-pleaser. He has also gained another name—"The fighter who never steps back."

Goozeman has won his last four fights. The victims were Eddie Macey, Joe Burns, Ruby Levine and Eddie Cochrane. He took all of them on short notice. He has plenty of time to get in condition for Taylor. Over a year ago Chicago promoters tried to make this match there, but Taylor was not over-anxious for it, as Goozeman had been knocking out such boxers as Joey Sangor, Eddie Anderson and Frankie Schaeffer.

Goozeman took eight out of ten rounds from Joe Burman. He took ten out of ten from Charley Ledoux, former French champion. Took five out of ten from Mike Dundee, a junior lightweight. Fought Danny Kramer toe-and-toe and hasn't stepped back yet. He can lift men twice the weight of Taylor above his head. He has the back of a wrestler.

Taylor Pleases Fans

Taylor holds decisions over Pancho Villa, Charley Phil Rosenberg, Abe Goldstein. When Taylor snatched victory from Little Jimmy McLarnin by a sensational last-minute rally he made himself solid with the fans. Taylor and McLarnin would make a splendid rematch.

Johnny Murphy stablemate of Taylor, boxes Sailor Billy Vincent in the six-round semi-final. Murphy won from Harry Ritzer last week. Looks like a real welterweight.

The complete card will be: Bud Taylor vs. Ernie Goozeman, 122 pounds, ten rounds; Johnny Murphy vs. Billy Vincent, 150 pounds, six rounds; Al Grunan vs. Dutch Crozier, 135 pounds, six rounds; Billy Bunch vs. Mike Mitchell, 118 pounds, four rounds; Johnny Fiske vs. Scotty McGlickie, 130 pounds, four rounds.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP by FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, June 12.—If Mickey Walker beats Harry Greb in the Italian hospital fund show which has been postponed to next month because Mickey has an infected toe, it will be interesting to see what the wily Jack Kearns, his manager, makes of the middleweight title.

The welter title in the past has been a better one from the money-making standpoint than the middleweight limit but just at present neither of them looks good.

There are no welters in sight who give even a flicker of hope of their ability to beat Walker. Bermondsey Billy Wells, the Englishman, is the likeliest looking bet and he is not a one to three shot against the pride of Kereighead.

Here is the list of good ones in this division; Billy Wells, Willie Harmon, Lew Tendler, Pete Latze, Marrie Schlaffer, Jimmy Jones, Eddie Shevlin and Jack Zivic. Dave Shade's name is not included because he is now a middleweight. And whatever he is, he is no Stanley Ketchell.

In the middleweight division so much trouble looms ahead from one single division that Harry Greb might be happy to let Walker have his title and welcome. The person in question is Jack Slattery, who will be 21 next year and thus eligible to fight any number of rounds he pleases.

Otherwise the woods are not filled with able middleweights. Tiger Flowers still lives, although one would not think so from reading the sporting pages and there is Frankie Schoell, whose victory over Jimmy Duffy out on the west coast recently shows that the Buffalo boy is still to be reckoned with. Jock Malone seems to have disappeared too and Bert Colima cannot hope to pose as a contender. Ted Moore has gone back to England. Allentown Joe Gans is only a fair prospect.

Of course, if Walker fails to beat Greb, and it is no cinch that he will, Kearns can keep Walker among the welters, but there does not appear to be the prospect of much money there.

RIVERS AND RYAN ON LEGION CARD

Bantamweights To Battle In Hollywood Tonight In Ten-Round Event

With Georgia Rivers and Buffalo Ryan fighting the main event at the Hollywood American Legion stadium tonight, fight fans are assured one of the best bantamweight cards to be seen for some time. Old Man Dope has it figured that Rivers is meeting too much class yet the California boy is rated as about as clever as they come on the coast.

Together with the fact that the semi-windup between Harry Runcan and Johnny Grella is slated as a slugfest, most likely the S. R. O. sign will be hung out early. A look at the preliminaries show that Tom Gallery knows the "how" when it comes to matching fighters. Tonight's card follows:

Georgie Rivers vs. Buffalo Tommy Ryan, 118 pounds, ten rounds. Harry Runcan vs. Johnny Grella, 150 pounds, six rounds. Bobby Tracy vs. Jimmy Butler, 135 pounds, six rounds. Billy Blake vs. Joe Piminthal, 122 pounds, four rounds. Kid Ceriaco vs. Tommy Murphy, 135 pounds, four rounds.

BOXING NOTES

AT CLEVELAND—Benny Goshe, Cleveland, won from Charlie Goodman, New York, ten rounds; Willie Lamort, Jersey City, outpointed Tommy Hughes, Detroit, six rounds; Milton Cohen, Cleveland, won from Chuck Allman, Toledo, second round; Johnny Mallow, Detroit, and Johnny Rini, Cleveland, drew six rounds.

AT ALBANY—Bushy Graham, Utica, won over Larry Goldberg, New York, 12 rounds; Joe Lammanina, Utica, beat young Rogers, Schenectady, six rounds.

Allege Tannery Trust Runs Cattle Market

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Charges have been filed at Chicago under the Sherman anti-trust law against the American Tannery Products Co., and other tannery companies, the department of justice announced. The companies are charged with conspiracy in restraint of trade and with the creation of a monopoly in cattle, cattle hair and other products.

As a result of the alleged combination the government charges that the Tanneries Product Co. now handles 90 to 95 per cent of the supply of cattle and calf hair sold in this country. The Tanneries Product Co. was alleged to own 90 per cent of the stock of the American Hair Felt Co., also named as a defendant. Defendants are scattered throughout Michigan, Kentucky, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Delaware, California and New Jersey.

Select July 2 As Date For Walker-Greb Bout

NEW YORK, June 12.—The date for the proposed bout between Mickey Walker and Harry Greb, middleweight titleholder, for the middleweight crown, was officially set for July 2 today by the New York State Athletic commission. The bout will be held at the Polo grounds here on the same card with the fight between Harry Wills and Charley Weinert.

LIST POLLING PLACES FOR ELECTION

Eight Precincts In City For School And Memorial Bond Issues

Glendale has been grouped into eight precincts by a combination of city precincts to vote next Tuesday on three proposed bond issues which include $1,237,000 for elementary school purposes and $150,000 for a proposed memorial hall.

Polls will open at 6 o'clock for the memorial hall bond election and will remain open until 7 p. m. For the school bond election polls will be open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. While in some instances election officials will interlock and serve on both municipal and school election boards, there are separate sets of officials in most instances for both proposed bond issues.

Polling places for each bond election, however, will be the same for the various precincts. Two propositions are to be voted on in the school bond election: $1,064,000 for purchase of school sites, erection of new school buildings and additions, repairs and equipment for present school structures. The second proposition is for $173,000 for the purchase of school sites, on which it is not intended to erect buildings at the present time. Bonds will be for 5 per cent, in $1000 denominations, to extend over a period of from one to forty years.

Proposed memorial hall bonds will bear interest of 5½ per cent.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, June 12.—Burbank will be decorated with the Druid colors of blue, green and red during the annual Druid convention to be held here next week. Merchants are co-operating and will make special window displays carrying out the color scheme in unique style. Convention headquarters will be established at the Elizabeth hotel. Sunday night at 9 o'clock the Los Angeles grove will give the delegates a Spanish entertainment at Druid temple.

An organization sponsoring annexation to Los Angeles has opened headquarters on East San Fernando road, from where the campaign will be conducted preliminary to the election to be held June 30. A public mass meeting to urge annexation will be held at the Women's club on June 19.

Los Angeles county will appropriate $45,000 for the improvement of that portion of San Fernando road within the Burbank city limits, according to an announcement before the Board of Trustees. The money will be available in August. The county provided $60,000 to aid in the paving of San Fernando road in Glendale.

The largest class in the history of the Burbank High school, sixty-seven students, will be graduated at commencement exercises to be held at the high school auditorium on Thursday evening, June 18. Dr. Karl Knopf of the school of religion of the University of Southern California, will deliver the principal address on "A Final Examination."

SHIPPING MAGNATE DEAD

OTTAWA, June 12.—Sir William Peterson, Atlantic shipping magnate, dropped dead in the House of Commons, on hearing on adverse report of the ocean rates special committee which effectually killed the proposed Canadian government subsidy of Peterson lines.

CHEMICALLY MAN IS VALUED LOW

Optimists Club Told Mankind Has Entirely Too Much Esteem For Himself

The chemical contents of man, stripped of his mental and emotional attributes, are worth in round money of the United States just about 98 cents, E. C. D. Price, lecturer and psychologist, told Glendale Optimists today noon during a lecture on salesmanship.

"Most men have no judgment and their opinions are seldom worth listening to, yet these same men so esteem themselves that they feel no inward urge to improve and in a self-satisfied state allow the qualifications for greatness to sleep dormant and uncultivated within them," he declared.

Cultivation of the four habits: Health, pertaining to the body; study, pertaining to the mind; play or diversion, and work, will spell success for every man, the speaker averred.

Traffic Problems

Today marked the second appearance of Mr. Price before the Optimist club. He was introduced by A. H. Voelker, in charge of the program today.

Col. James W. Everington, secretary of the Glendale Traffic commission, in a brief talk told of the principal items before the commission at the present time, which are a major traffic plan for Glendale, recodification of the Glendale traffic laws and the rapid transit plan for the metropolitan area.

Is Club's Guest

Wesley Kuhnle announced the artists' course for next winter under the auspices of the Glendale Music club. Fred Benedict, general manager of the Union Ice Co., was introduced as the guest of the club today. Dr. H. J. Cooper was awarded the attendance prize.

The bowling teams of the Optimist and Lions' clubs will meet in competition tonight, Dave Hepburn of the bowling committee, announced.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, June 12.—"The Church With the Full Gospel and the Friendly Greeting" has been chosen by Rev. Clifford Jones, pastor of the La Crescenta Community church, as his theme for the morning sermon Sunday. Being Children's day special services will be devoted to the younger members of the Sunday school and congregation including exercises, baptism and a sermonette for the children by the pastor. Sunday evening will be young people's night. Carl Smith and William Orr of Pasadena will speak and sing. The pastor will deliver a short talk on "The Voice of God for the Youth of Today."

Friends of Miss Margaret Hauber are delighted to learn of her recovery from her recent illness. The Allied Arts club which had postponed it's meetings till Miss Hauber had recovered, will meet Tuesday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Charles M. Turck.

La Crescenta P.-T. A. Reading circle met at the home of Mrs. Montague Cleeves where the routine business was discharged with Mrs. W. C. Angier in the chair pro tem. Luncheon was served by the hostess, reading after luncheon being in a lighter vein than the study of the morning. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Jessie Hansen on Wednesday next. By vote the meetings will be continued throughout the summer.

Members of the Women's club motored to La Canada today to decorate the Gould barn for the dance tomorrow night. Mrs. Rinette Slutman served an old-fashioned chicken dinner to those who put up the tents for the wild animal show and other features for the entertainment of those attending the supper and dance.

Railroads connecting Croatia with the ports of Sebenica and Spalato are being constructed.

Will Rogers Has Spotlight Put on Thaw

NEW YORK, June 12.—After another night among the bright lights, Harry K. Thaw suddenly departed early today for his country home in Winchester, Va., without telling reporters whether he will return or not.

Thaw spent the evening at the theatre where he occupied a seat in the fifth row. Will Rogers, doing his turn, announced that "there's a man in the house whom all of us know," and the spotlight was switched upon the slayer of Stanford White. There was a craning of necks. Then a moderate burst of applause. Thaw stared straight ahead.

After the show Thaw and his companions tried to catch a midnight train. They were two minutes late, but waited for a later one.

LECTURER TALKS ON SALESMANSHIP

Dr. Paul W. Ivey Speaks At Kiwanis Club Meeting On Selling Goods

The three important items of salesmanship are knowing merchandise, analyzing customers and knowing one's self, Dr. Paul W. Ivey, sales lecturer and counselor, told members of the Kiwanis club at the meeting held today noon at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse. Dr. Ivey was formerly professor of marketing at the University of Nebraska, and now holds a position with Northwestern university.

Merchants on the Pacific coast do not know what real competition is, Dr. Ivey said. This is due to the fact that chain stores have not made any great inroads into California, he said, but warned the merchants they were coming. He gave experiences in selling certain lines, and told how to overcome the fault of salesmen.

President Frank Fox presided at the meeting. He announced that during his absence while attending the national convention, the vice-presidents, Rev. Clifford Cole and Bert Perry would have charge of the meetings. Members of the club will go to Pasadena next Wednesday noon when the delegates leave.

Visiting Kiwanians present today were: Walter McFadden, Cecil Wilcox, Clarence Kennedy, Walter Severns, D. H. Rowan, Dave Langlands, Newton Cauns, H. J. Penfield, all of Lankershim; W. R. Brown of San Francisco, H. P. Donaldson of Rochester, Pa., and Theo. O. Covel of Burbank. The attendance prize, donated by Merrill Davis, was won by Howard I. Wood.

President Fox announced plans for the convention trip next week.

ANGRY YEGGS DO DAMAGE TO OFFICE

Heavy Destruction Wrought By Burglars Who Broke Into Local Plant

Burglars who last night broke through a window of the offices of the Thermosoid Construction System, Inc., 5000 South San Fernando road, and escaped with office supplies, contracts, adding machines, typewriters, books and other paraphernalia, were the most destructive vandals in the annals of Glendale police history.

While the total loss will run into thousands of dollars because of the theft of valuable contracts that must be replaced, book accounts and office equipment, the exact amount will not be known until a complete check is made.

Detective Sergeant F. C. Williams of the Glendale force, obtained a number of valuable clues this morning, which he believes will lead to arrests.

Because of the apparent attempt to commit so much destruction to property that could not be hauled away with safety, police believe that the burglars held a personal grudge against the company, and that the looting of the establishment was partially for reasons of revenge.

The yeggmen went from office to office, breaking doors, smashing furniture, yanking out drawers and breaking them, ruining filing cases and marring walls and floors. Los Angeles police are also conducting an investigation.

Entrance was gained through a side window that was "jimmied" apparently by a professional burglar. It is believed that a light truck or big touring car was used to transport the loot away from the building.

Garage, Grass Fires, Keep Apparatus Busy

A garage owned by Mrs. K. Rosenberger, 328 East Dryden street, was damaged to the extent of $25 by fire yesterday afternoon when sparks from a nearby rubbish fire were carried to the roof. Blazing embers from the one burning building ignited another garage at 322 East Dryden, causing $10 damage.

The fire department made four runs to grass fires yesterday, one of which was started by boys playing with matches in a vacant lot.

He spoke on the zone meeting at Eagle Rock at 5:45 o'clock on the afternoon of June 22. Telephone conversations, filled with wit and resulting in fines, added interest to the meeting. During the absence of Secretary Burton McGinnis, Mrs. G. H. Kramer acted in that capacity.

I am auhorized to sell for $6000 a home that is easily worth $7000. There are some things you should consider in buying a home—desirable neighborhood, sightly location, restricted district, nearness to transportation and good market. I am offering all the above with a 5-room stucco house that in design and workmanship in construction and material used—is the best. Inside decoration in splendid taste. A real fireplace. Built-ins built with a view to convenience and comfort. A splendid buy at a sacrifice price—only $6000—small down payment and $60 a month. A PLEASURE TO SHOW. Telephone Glen. 5068-W. Address 1265 So. Builders Attention

On East Broadway, transportation, schools and stores at your very door; lot 61x208, house of five rooms, to exchange for home on less valuable lot. This is a fine chance for a builder to get control of a lot suitable for bungalow court or three duplexes or store in front, court in rear. Priced for trade at $15,000—there is a $5000 Mtg. which can be paid off at any time.

BACK TO NATURE

How about going back to the country to live? If you have a good property in Glendale reasonably priced, we can exchange it for you for 40, 80 or 120 acres on highway, five miles from a large, live city. There is a great abundance of cheap water, splendid soil and two hours' ride from fine mountain resorts, yet on main transportation lines.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

Two snaps in Glendale homes—one a six room, one an eight—both $3000 below actual market value.

2 THINGS 2 HAPPEN

When you inspect and get the price and terms on this home. You will either buy or you will at least try, providing you are honest with yourself and the—? and really want to buy, "I said buy."
This is a home in every sense. You could not possibly build it for anything less than $1200 more than this lady is asking for it, if sold at once. It's a real stucco, no cracks. It's about 6 months old, about 1600 feet of floor space divided into 7 spacious rooms. Solid tiled bath, also sink; one-half inch hardwood floors, fireplace, fixtures, plumbing, finish, etc., are the very best. Large patio and entrance at rear to the sun or third bedroom, beautiful breakfast room, too many closets. On full size lot, good lawn and shrubs. 2 blocks to cars and Sam Seelig's store, short walk to two schools. North Glendale's best section.
The owner is desirous of making a quick sale and says she would sacrifice $1200 to avoid having to show people through for an indefinite time in order to get the real worth or cost. Any reasonable terms and cash down. The price is $6600 or less. Clear lot considered in trade. During the owners' absence you may arrange to see the property by calling at 312½ S. Brand. SONG WRITER SILENT ON WEDDING

Irving Berlin Refers Query To His Reported Fiancee, Wealthy Heiress

NEW YORK, June 12.—Reports that Miss Ellen Mackay, one of the wealthiest heiresses in New York society, and Irving Berlin, writer of popular song hits, will be married in the autumn, were current today, following confirmation that Pope Pius has been requested to sanction the match through a special dispensation.

Berlin was en route to the Canadian woods today to write the music for two new Broadway shows. He and Miss Mackay spent some time together yesterday at the home of a mutual friend on Long Island.

Questioned about his engagement to the daughter of Clarence H. Mackay, Berlin simply said: "You will have to ask Miss Mackay."

Prior to confirmation of reports that the Vatican had been requested to sanction the marriage, reports of their engagement were denied by all concerned, but these denials have now ceased.

BELGIAN LOAN

NEW YORK, June 12.—The $50,000,000 Belgian loan, offered to the public today was snapped up in record time. The issue was oversubscribed almost immediately after the books were opened. The issue was offered to the public by J. P. Morgan & Co. and the Guaranty Trust Co. It was the thirty-year sinking fund 7 per cent gold bond issue. At the subscription price of 98, the new bond yields about 7.15 per cent to maturity. The Belgian government will use half of the proceeds of the new loan for public improvements in the Congo, and the balance will be turned over to the Banque Nationale De Belgique, for the protection of the Belgian franc in the exchange markets.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, June 12.—Under the leadership of the oil stocks, which displayed a more buoyant tone than at any time since the collapse of their January rally, the stock market moved vigorously upward today. Professional bulls and bullish pools had little difficulty in marking prices of their favorite stocks higher. Many of the motors and specialties which have been reactionary for a week or more jumped to higher prices, while new specialties advertised themselves with gains of from 5 to 15 points.

Rumors of proposed price advances in oil products were converted into actuality today when the Standard Oil Co. of New York announced an increase of 1 cent a gallon in tank wagon prices of gasoline, effective tomorrow. Heavy declines in Smackover crude oil production helped to confirm the confidence of traders in the oil shares and to attract larger buying demand to them. Broad upward swings took place in the prices of oil stocks in the listed and outside markets. Independent Oil & Gas was a leader on the big board, with a gain of 3½ points. Texas Co., Skelly, General Petrofeum and Pan-American bettered yesterday's best prices.

The belated retreat of the shorts from Maxwell "B" stock resulted in heavy buying with a 5-point gain in prices. Mack Trucks was up 3 points; Cast Iron Pipe up 6; Steel and Baldwin gained fractionally.

General Railway Signal and American Republics made a spectacular addition to the active list this week. The former sold up to 158 today for a gain of 14 points, while the batter gained 8 today and sold 19 points above yesterday's low. American Republic is an important dealer in tank cars, drilling apparatus and other supplies for oil companies.

Selling pressure against the railroad stocks was lifted shortly after the noon period and prices once more showed a tendency to advance, New York Central selling about a point higher; Frisco common was up 2½, at 82, and Southern Railway nearly 2 points, at 95⅜. Northern Pacific and Great Northern displayed a stronger tone. Lehigh Valley sold up 1 point, to 81, in addition to making up its dividend.

The constructive action taken by the Rubber Association of America attracted some good buying to the rubber stocks. Fisk, Ajax, United States Rubber and Goodrich were the most active in this group. The independent steel stocks failed to follow the pace set by the market leader in the steels and most of these stocks were lower. Profit-taking was less in evidence than in the last two sessions.

Oil stocks retained their leadership in the market until the close.

Copper stocks came to the front near the close.

The market closed strong and active, with total sales in the largest volume of any full session this week.

Sales today, 1,802,500 shares; bonds, $11,464,000.

Futures opened quiet: July, 12.55; October, 12.07; January 11.95.

N. Y. WOOL MARKET

NEW YORK, June 12.—Market firm. Domestic fleece, XX, Ohio, 45@50c; domestic pulled, scoured basis, 72c@$1.12; domestic Texas, scoured basis, $1.10@1.30; domestic territory staple, scoured basis 82c@$1.28.

BANK CLEARINGS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—bank clearings, $28,000,000; Los Angeles, $28,219,248; Seattle; $7,808,336; Portland, $6,998,-65; Oakland, $3,405,100; San Diego, $1,77,976.

MARKET SUMMARY

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—President Carl Gray of the Union Pacific today expressed amazement at the industrial progress being made here and viewed the improvements being made by his company in the erection of roundhouses and laying out of yards for the central manufacturing district east of Los Angeles river.

Market wires report that incorporation papers have been filed by the Crude Oil Corporation of America with capital stock listed at $10,000,000. Its purpose is to provide the oil industry with a revolving fund, it is said.

Current prices of pig iron cannot long continue, according to President Campbell of Youngstown, Ohio, Sheet & Tube corporation.

The Canadian government has issued a bearish wheat estimate which, with other factors, has caused the American grain market to show some weakness despite strong Canadian prices.

CHICAGO STOCK

CHICAGO, June 12.—Hogs—Receipts, 19,000; market 10@20c up; bulk $11.75@12.35; top $12.60. Heavy weight, $12.15@12.60; medium weight, $12@12.45; light weight, $11.15@12.25; light lights, $10.50@11.75; heavy packing sows, smooth, $11.15@11.50; packing sows, rough, $10.80@11.10; pigs, $10.25@11.25.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 12.—Wheat and corn were lower, while oats prices were higher at the close of the market here today. Wheat finished 1⅞@2⅜c lower, corn, ⅛@⅝c lower, and oats, ⅛@¾c higher. Additional rains over the northwest, west and southwest, with forecasts for generally unsettled and showery weather with cooler temperatures, started a heavy selling movement in the wheat pit and carried prices off sharply. Locals taking to buying on dips ran into burdensome offerings on the small rallies. Corn, strong at the start, ran into liquidation and prices eased off in sympathy with wheat. Oats met mixed trade and prices eased off after early bulges because of the reaction in wheat. Provisions closed slightly higher in sympathy with hogs.

DRIED FRUITS

NEW YORK, June 12.—Market steady. Apricots, choice to extra fancy, 25@27½; apples, evaporated, prime to fancy, 11@14c; prunes, 30s to 60s, 7½@12½c; prunes, 60s to 100s, 6½@7½c; peaches choice to extra fancy, 11½@15c; seedless raisins, sulphur bleached, 18c; seedless raisins, choice to extra fancy, 6½@8c.

CROWDS GAZE ON BEAUTY IN PARADE

California Bathing Girl Week Draws Throngs to Beach City For Contests

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., June 12.—A great crowd today witnessed the grand pageant parade, one of the big features of beauty week here.

Scores of California cities were represented with floats, and competition for the prize awards promised to be keen.

Interest among the competing beauty queens representing fifty cities centered today in the contest and prize award tonight for the most beautiful girl in evening dress. A dazzling array of evening costumes will adorn the visiting beauties and the judges are expected to find difficulty in "picking winners."

Burbank's Gallantry

Luther Burbank, noted plant wizard, yesterday publicly congratulated Miss Faye Lanphier, 1924 beauty queen, here to defend her title as Miss California.

The weather has been vying with the array of beauty here for the week in charm.

One fatality was recorded yesterday at the beach when a bather, so far unidentified, expired suddenly in the natatorium dressing room.

CONCESSION

MOSCOW, June 12.—The concession giving the W. A. Harriman financial interests of New York exclusive right to mine manganese in the Caucasus mountains was formally signed here today by representatives of the Russian government and John Elliot for the Harriman interests. The Harriman interests this week put up a cash guarantee of a million dollars in improvements totaling millions of dollars in the mines and that the concession would be carried out.

Spend Huge Sum On Theatre In Bay City

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—Announcement was made today that construction will begin at once on a new $4,000,000 motion picture theatre in upper Market street following completion of a real estate deal for the lot to be occupied by the new structure. A. F. Rousseau declined to name the prospective tenant. The theatre will seat 4000.

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—Jack Warner of Warner brothers, motion picture producers, announced today that his company was the builder of the $4,000,000 San Francisco theatre.

Has Bandaged Hand, Arrested As Suspect

A gash in his hand led to the arrest today of Martin L. Cavana, charged with having taken part in the burglary Saturday night of the Acacia pharmacy, Acacia street and Glendale avenue. Detective Sergeant F. C. Williams noted Cavana on the street with a bound-up hand. He became suspicious and investigated.

Approximately $300 was taken from the pharmacy, according to George C. Harris, proprietor. One of the burglars was known to have slashed his hand on a broken show case.

ONCE UPON A TIME — THE THREE WISHES III. — BY W. J. ENRIGHT

WHEN THE OLD WIFE SAW HOW HER HUSBAND HAD WASTED ONE OF THE PRECIOUS WISHES SHE WAS BESIDE HERSELF WITH ANGER AND, WITHOUT STOPPING TO THINK, SCREAMED, "I WISH THE SAUSAGE WAS STUCK TO YOUR NOSE."
NO SOONER DID SHE UTTER THE WORDS THAN UP JUMPED THE SAUSAGE TO HER HUSBAND'S NOSE AND DANGLED THERE LIKE THE TRUNK OF AN ELEPHANT.
THE OLD MAN TUGGED AND PULLED BUT THE SAUSAGE WAS STUCK FAST.

SANTA BARBARA, June 12.—Among the 110 members of the Santa Barbara High school graduating class receiving their diplomas one week from tonight will be Della Bella and Stella Ella Haverland, twin sisters. Three brothers and three sisters of the Ruthrauff, Keating and Jones families also are in the large class.

IN LOS ANGELES

By Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—Repaving of Whittier boulevard, the heaviest traveled state highway in California, will be continued during the summer, State Highway Commissioner Nelson T. Edwards announced today. The work to be done lies between Whittier and Montebello. Half the cost of widening the boulevard to fifty-six feet, with curbs and gutters on either side, will be met from the gasoline tax funds while Los Angeles county will pay the balance.

The Southern Pacific Co. today opened its new Fittieth street freight station on Alameda street with a delegation of civic leaders, business men and railway officials enjoying a buffet luncheon.

Coming as a surprise aftermath of the municipal election a suit is on file today in superior court contesting the election of Mayor George E. Cryer. The petition was filed by attorneys for Mrs. Edna Allen. Irregularities in tallying the votes is alleged.

Captain Cannon of the county motorcycle squad today announced that next week would usher in a campaign against illegal automobile headlights.

John Tait, San Francisco restaurant man, is said to be negotiating the purchase of the million dollar Japanese Garden villa estate in the Hollywood hills near Los Feliz boulevard, developed by Eugene Bernheimer, prior to his death a year ago December.

"The Star of Ethiopia," a pageant by 700 colored people, will have its premiere in Hollywood bowl next Monday night.
